CRUSH AHEAD ON MARETH LINE

Meat Rush Forces Market Closings Today

STOCKS WIPED OUT EARLY BY HEAVY DEMAND

Market Proprietors Doubt If They'll Have Meat on Hand For Monday Rationing.

LINES FORM AT 6:30

Consumers Gather In Front of Stores Long Before Hour For Opening.

Mansfield butchers sympathized with Old Mother Hubbard today.

A two-day rush of unprecedented buying left cupboards and shelves bare in most markets, forcing them to close in early afternoon today.

So great was the demand in the two days preceding rationing of meat beginning Monday that many proprietors said they would not have enough meat on hand to begin rationing.

Like yesterday, long lines formed at meat counters soon after markets opened this morning. Lines formed as early as 6:30 before some downtown stores.

Markets which remained open during the day made sales only certain hours in order to be able to take care of telephone orders.

Although most of the dealers will have very little meat to sell by point rationing on Monday they are not much concerned. With the heavy buying of the past two days, most consumers have laid in a supply which will tide them over until shelves are again stocked. They expect a good supply by the middle of the week.

Dealers said they are hoping to receive a fresh supply of meat from the wholesalers early in the week. They are confident that they can meet demands by the middle of the week when the supplies which housewives have stored up this week-end are gone.

Poultry dealers in Mansfield found themselves in a situation similar to that of the meat dealers. In two hours this morning one poultry retailer sold more than 300 chickens.

In cities over the nation, consumers continued to battle their way to the butcher shop counters.

At Columbus, 18 policemen were sent to the Central Market where

Report on Highway Investigation Held Secret by State

State Highway Director Hal G. Sours today declined to reveal findings of an engineers' special committee which investigated scaling of Cleveland's highly-touted Bulkley boulevard and Mayfield road, built less than two years ago by the Lombardo Brothers contracting company, dispatches from Columbus said today.

The investigators studied charges of Cleveland's mayor, Frank Lausche, that deterioration of the Bulkley freeway resulted from faulty construction supervision by state engineers of materials used by the Lombardos. Sours blamed the pavement crack-up on salt compounds used by the city to prevent skidding.

Meanwhile hundreds of Richland county motorists who for months have been required to drive many extra miles daily because the Route 30-N grade elimination project was not completed by the Nov. 30 deadline last fall, are still without word as to when the west-bound pavement will be laid and connections with existing pavement constructed under the 90-day extension period granted last fall by the highway department. This contract is in the hands of Lombardo brothers.

SWORN IN

36 Waves, Spars Part of Huge Cleveland Spectacle.

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Thirty-six Cleveland women started their duties today as WAVES and SPARS after taking their oaths before a crowded audience in front of the war service center on public square last night.

Cleveland's largest naval parade in 20 years attracted approximately 75,000 spectators who cheered 120 units of marching men and women of the United States navy and coast guard.

Eden Pledges Britain To Crush Japs

Full Accord Is Indicated With U. S. on War Objectives.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden, indicating American-British agreement on war objectives and post war plans, appeared today to be trying to dispel Chinese fears that Great Britain considers the Pacific war unimportant.

After an address by Eden to the Maryland legislature at Annapolis last night in which he declared that there has been a "meeting of minds" during his talks here, British sources said that Prime Minister Winston Churchill's speech last Sunday—in which he failed to mention China—was misunderstood; that Churchill was speaking for domestic consumption.

Churchill was criticized by Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek, among others, for omitting China in his call for immediate conferences of American, British and Russian representatives to plan a post-war "world organization" to maintain peace.

Eden countered the criticism with these pledges last night: "Let China not misdoubt us. We shall not forget how for years she resisted aggression single-handed. . . . China no longer stands alone.

"The time will come when the Burma road will once again be open. It will carry into China an ever increasing volume of supply, which the efforts of your country and mine are turning out daily from the assembly line.

"We, no less than you, and our partner China, have a score to settle with the Japanese; nor shall we cease fighting until that evil growth in the Pacific has been cut back. We shall be with you in this to the end."

In contrast to Churchill, Eden specifically included China in his discussion of any future international authority.

He called on the Allies to organize themselves into "a close-knit frame-work of free nations" patterned after the British commonwealth and backed by sufficient might to enforce peace throughout the world after this war is over. The United Nations will not have deserved victory, he said, if they do not find the common ground on which to build such an "international authority."

ARMY BOUND

LaGuardia Due to Get Uniform Linked With Africa Rumors.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— White House Secretary Stephen T. Early said today that all indications are that Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York will go into the army.

Early declined to be drawn out on the exact status of LaGuardia's contemplated move. He was induced to comment by newspaper reports that LaGuardia was to have the rank of brigadier general and to be sent to North Africa, possibly in anticipation of invasion of Italy.

"I can only say that all indications point to the army for the mayor," Early said.

DIE IN BLAZE

Three Boys Trapped By Eastern Forest Fires.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. —(INS)— Three boys were burned to death and another was critically injured before weary firemen, handicapped by lack of sufficient equipment brought five forest fires in central and southern New Jersey under control today.

Near the bodies of 17-year-old Alfred Ingersoll and Ralph Luderitz, both of May's Landing, was found the charred remains of Ralph's brother, Carl.

U. S. SHIP SUNK

26 Survivors Landed at Brazilian Port.

SANTOS, Brazil —(AP)— United States naval authorities authorized the disclosure today that 26 survivors of a United States merchantman sunk in the South Atlantic had arrived recently after 42 days at sea.

Survivors said three of their comrades died when a torpedo struck their ship and 28 in another life boat had not been sighted since shortly after the sinking.

Lewis Exchanges Jabs With Truman Committee

Amid charges and counter-charges of demagoguery by the United Mine Workers chief and Senator Joseph Ball (R.) of Minnesota, John L. Lewis, extreme left, above, testifies under subpoena before the Truman senate investigating committee in Washington. Charging that the "little steel formula" is a breach of contract by the government, Lewis said he would not necessarily stand by the "no strike" agreement of December 1941.

GUILTY, MURDER PLEA OF SOLDIER

'Sorry It Happened,' Private Says After Admitting He Killed Waitress.

BUCYRUS—Telling authorities repeatedly that he was "sorry it happened," Glore Bevard, 33, army private at Camp Millard at Bucyrus, this morning pleaded guilty in Mayor W. F. Whitecamre's court to a first degree murder charge in the slaying of Mrs. Wilma Reed, 29, Bucyrus waitress with whom he had been sharing an apartment.

The soldier was held to the Crawford county grand jury without bond. He was returned to the county jail. The grand jury is scheduled to hear the case Monday when its meets in regular session.

"Yes, I killed her, but I'm sorry it happened," Pvt. Bevard told authorities when arraigned today. He denied, however, that the slaying was premeditated, asserting that Mrs. Reed "jumped on" him and hit his hand while he sat on the floor of her aparement sorting his pictures last Sunday night.

"Do you plead guilty to the murder charge?" Mayor Whitecamre asked him today.

Bevard nodded his head, indicating "yes." He was in court with ALAMAGORDO, N. M.— (INS)— Six fliers, including one from Massillon, O., were killed when an army bomber crashed a few miles from the Alamagordo army air base, the public relations office announced today. The dead were:

Second Lieut. Frank W. Gardner, of Denton, Tex.; Second Lieut. Will D. Willis, of Massillon, O.; Staff Sgt. Price A. Keyes, of West Palm Beach, Fla.; Staff Sgt. Lawrence W. Supernand, of Fond Du Lac, Wis.; Sgt. John A. Jarvis, of Chicago, and Pfc. Francis X. Joyce, of Maplewood, N. H.

WOMAN FACES MURDER CHARGE

Arraigned In Slaying of Well Known Horsewoman.

TULSA, Okla. —(AP)— The case of the swank hotel room shooting of Mrs. T. Karl Simmons, widely known horsewoman, moved into its second legal phase today—arraignment of Mrs. Ella B. Howard, Fort Worth divorcee, on a murder charge.

Mrs. Howard, 44, prematurely gray and the mother of a son and daughter, was taken into custody Thursday night shortly after Mrs. Simmons was found dead in Mrs. Howard's room in the fashionable Mayo hotel.

SONS SPLIT IT

Morgan Estate Divided by Two Naval Officers.

MINEOLA, N. Y. —(AP)— The two naval officer sons of John Pierpont Morgan will share the bulk of the late financier's fortune.

Under the terms of Morgan's will filed for probate here yesterday, Commander Junius Spencer Morgan, USNR., and Lieut. Commander Henry Sturgis Morgan, USNR., will share equally in the residuary estate.

No estimate of the estate's size was made. Morgan, who died at the age of 75 on March 13 in Boca Grande, Fla., provided for his children, nephews and nieces and also for numerous employes.

The financier bequeathed $25,000 to each of his children, the two sons and his two daughters, Jane Norton Nichols and Frances Tracy Pennoyer. The will explained the small bequests to the daughters by saying Morgan had made provisions for them before his death.

START CIGARET RUN

LOS ANGELES —(INS)— A run on cigarets, begun on the basis of unfounded rumors that sales would be halted, continued today to threaten Southern California with a tobacco shortage as citizens attempted vainly to buy out stocks in retail stores.

GAINS SUPPORT FOR TAX BILL

Administration Says Debate Costs GOP Votes For Ruml Plan.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Administration forces made slow but steady gains today for their bill to revamp the tax collections system, but house proponents of the Ruml plan still insisted that they would win.

As members prepared to convene in a special Saturday session, Rep. Disney (D.) Okla., a ranking member of the ways and means committee and one of the managers of the administration's bill, asserted that the "tide has definitely turned."

"The debate," he said, "has already cost the Republicans a number of Democratic votes which they thought they had for the Ruml plan.

"Moreover, they are discovering that there is more opposition on their own side of the aisle than they had anticipated. As we say out west, 'the calves are out of the lot.'"

Rep. Knutson (R.) Minn., who is handling the strategy in the pro-Ruml camp, conceded that the Republicans might lose 15 to 25 votes

TRUMAN WANTS TO VISIT FRONT

Asks For Permission to Take Committee to Battle Areas.

WASHINGTON — (AP)— Chairman Truman (D-Mo.) said today he has suggested to the war department that his war investigating subcommittee be authorized to visit American battle fronts in all parts of the world to check up on supply, procurement and transportation problems.

Four members of his committee would be joined by four members of the house, under Truman's plan.

He said he had received no reply yet, although there were reports Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, has given his tentative approval.

CEILING SEEN AS FISH COST SKYROCKETS

OPA Also Prepares to Move Against Widespread Black Market In Poultry.

DAVIS TO TAKE OVER

New Food Czar Begins Job of Supplying Farmers With Men, Machines on Monday.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Secretary of Agriculture Wickard today announced revision of civilian meat quotas for the next three months, providing consumers with more pork but less beef, veal, lamb, and mutton. Officials said, however, that there would be sufficient meat of all types to meet the consumer demand under rationing which goes into effect Monday.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The Office of Price Administration today prepared to move against skyrocketing fresh fish prices and a black market in poultry while other phases of the critical food problem awaited the attention of the nation's new food czar.

Chester C. Davis, of St. Louis, new food production and distribution chief, will go to work Monday on the monumental task of providing America's 8,500,000 farmers with the farm machinery, materials, supplies and manpower necessary to attain wartime food goals.

OPA, meantime, was reported considering imposition of price ceilings on fresh fish, which have soared upward under the impact of consumer rationing of other commodities, and cracking down on widespread violations of poultry price ceilings.

Both items are unrationed and the demand for them has risen sharply as result of the meat scarcity and the forthcoming limited rationing of meats, cheeses, canned fish, butter, fats and oils.

Other developments on the food front:

1. The agriculture department neared the end of a nation-wide, county-by-county survey on farm machinery requirements. Officials hope to have a full and accurate report by April 15 on actual equipment needs to meet production goals.

2. An estimated 100,000,000 bushels of government-owned wheat will be distributed imme-

QUIT WAR JOBS

2,000 Stop Work In Protest Over 'Mismanagement.'

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Two thousand union workers at two Brooklyn plants of the Bendix Aviation corporation, marine division, today stopped work on war products until the army or navy takes over the plants.

William Greenspan, spokesman of Local 853, United Automobile Workers, (CIO), said the workers voted earlier today to halt production in protest of "deplorable" conditions at the factories.

He asserted the work-stoppage—he refused to call it a strike—was a protest against "mismanagement." Production of precision instruments for the army and navy had been low, he said.

GETS SENTENCE

Tiffin Man Ordered to Prison for Embezzlement.

TIFFIN —(INS)— Clarence W. Crobaugh, 49, executive secretary of the Citizens Building Association company, was sentenced today to one to ten years in prison on each of three indictments charging embezzlement, falsifying records, and perjury. The sentences are to run concurrently.

STAGE COMEBACK

Can Openers Can Be Made Again Under WPB Ruling.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Can openers are staging a mild comeback.

The War Production Board today ordered an approximate doubling of can opener production for civilian use, but specified that no more than 12 ounces of metal may be used in each can opener.

British Gain Ground With Bayonet Drive

Northern Front Comes to Life Again As Allied Planes Destroy Eight Enemy Craft; Block-Busters Wipe Out Enemy Camps.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—A German broadcast recorded by the Associated Press said today that a great number of United States troops had arrived in Aden, the British garrison outpost across the mouth of the Red sea from Africa. The report had no confirmation from Allied sources.

(By United Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa—The British Eighth army has carried out a successful attack against one sector of the Mareth line and is inching farther into Axis positions in the face of stern, determined opposition.

(Radio Algiers said British infantry, in a cold-steel bayonet attack, had gained ground in the Mareth area.)

Today's Allied communique indicated that the northern front, where the Allies apparently have been content to conduct a holding operation, was coming to life. Patrols from the British First army conducted large reconnaissance actions, inflicting casualties and taking prisoners.

The tide of battle in the air continued to run heavily in favor of the Allies. Eight enemy planes were destroyed yesterday against an Allied loss of one. Axis pilots made a weak raid against the Algiers area and dropped a few bombs. Two of the raiding planes were destroyed.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth army, supported by tremendous aerial power, appeared to be slowly wearing down the German-Italian forces in the Mareth line. The communique reported that prisoners were falling into the hands of the Eighth army men, indicating a slow but steady advance.

Two-ton block busters were used by the western desert air force to help reduce the Mareth fortifications and to make raids far behind Axis lines. One squadron leader said enemy camps "just ceased to exist" under the impact of the big bombs.

"The earth swallows up everything around," he added. "The whole countryside is lighted up."

There was nothing more than local activity in south-central Tunisia where two American columns are edging toward the sea in an attempt to cut off Axis forces in the Mareth line.

A British military observer in London said that Rommel probably has eight divisions—normally 120,000 men—or the remnants of them, concentrated behind the Mareth line and as far to the Northwest as Gabes, 25 miles up the coast.)

There was no recent report on the further progress, if any, of the outflanking columns which Montgomery sent around the southern end of the Mareth line. At last word, the column was approaching El Hamma, 20 miles west of Gabes.

Farther north, the American Fifth army consolidated their newly-won positions east of Maknassy and within 30 miles of the coast road which is Rom-

SHAKE-UP: Laval Aids Ousted As Vichy Loses Backing Abroad

(By Associated Press)

The Berlin radio, Nazi-controlled stations in France and dispatches to Spanish newspapers have combined in the past 36 hours to indicate a major shake-up in the Vichy government of Pierre Laval and political alignments in France.

The Berlin radio announced dismissal of five of Laval's cabinet ministers last night in what it called a harmonious move "insuring unconditional support of the Laval government" and which it said was designed to give the French government a greater concentration of power.

But the government shake-up came on the heels of the revelation that French diplomats and officials abroad were dropping away from the Vichy regime in important numbers.

Chief defection was at Vichy's largest foreign establishment at Madrid, where 14 diplomatic and consular officers resigned and switched their allegiance to Gen. Henri Giraud. French high commissioner in North and West Africa.

Some of the resignations from Laval's official family appeared recognition of existing facts, such as those of Admiral Jean Marie Abrial, navy minister, and Minister of Colonies Jules Brevie.

Virtually all the French fleet is now either at the bottom of Toulon harbor, where it was scuttled by its French officers and crews to prevent seizure by Germany, or is in Allied hands.

DISRUPTED: Jap Plans for Invasion Base Foiled by Bombs

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The navy announced today that long-range Liberator bombers carried out a smashing attack on the Japanese base at Nauru island near the Gilberts, scoring hits on installations and starting four fires.

(By International News Service)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA—American heavy bombers poured 38,000 pounds of bombs on the new Japanese base at Wewak, on the northeast coast of New Guinea, and effectively disrupted the enemy plans to build a new invasion stronghold, a communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported today.

Squadrons of Fortress and Liberator bombers were over the Wewak area for three hours in a night attack on wharf and harbor installations. The Japanese have built one large airfield at Wewak, capable of servicing 150 planes. Work is progressing on eight additional fields, Allied observation pilots have reported.

A Japanese ship in the Wewak harbor was heavily damaged by two direct hits with 500-pound bombs. Reconnaissance planes reporting on the results of Thursday's attack on Amboina said that two Japanese cargo vessels attacked in the raid by heavy bombers were burning fiercely hours after the attack.

Allied medium bombers and fighter squadrons swept over

Camera Portrays Easter Finery

Spring arrived officially last week and the weather finally condescended to agree with the almanac. With the return of warm sunlight and soft breezes a woman's (and a man's) thought just naturally turn to thoughts of Easter and new clothes.

So the Sunday edition brings you four picture layouts showing the newest in 1943 spring and summer fashions.

Still looking ahead toward summer, the Sunday News-Journal will reveal plans that have been set up for improving the city's streets during the coming months. One of the projects, never before announced, would clear up one of Mansfield's major traffic bottlenecks.

Out at Newman school both parents and pupils are planning to make sure the school cafeteria will be well supplied with vegetables next year. They are laying out community victory gardens for the school. Story and pictures tell you about it tomorrow.

More pictures with text will present the U. S. Marine Corps Women's Reserve with complete data on how women of the Mansfield area may secure applications to become officers or enlisted personnel.

For the special convenience of housewives the Sunday edition will carry a simplified meat point chart that can be clipped and carried in your ration book. It has been designed so that it will fit neatly inside the book.

N THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

ASHINGTON—Government people here expect heavy losses from submarines during the next ral months. What they really mean is that are not going to gain on the submarine very h until next winter.

We are breaking every shipbuilding record. But we get out of it is stay where we are. We a little. But not very much. If we come out at the end of the summer with as much shipping afloat as we have now, then we will have done about as well as some of our people expect to do.

Clapper

I saw a tanker launched this week at the Sun shipbuilding yards in Chester, Pa. That was the first ship I had ever seen launched. When you see a ship slide down the skids into the water, you get a deep thrill out of it. Joseph N. Pew, chairman e Sun Shipbuilding company, says he had seen reds of ships launched but that after all of years it is still a thrill.

was standing down under the hull, near where workmen were sawing through the planks to se this 18,000-ton tanker for the slide down the water. Workmen who had helped put her her were standing all around, obviously ex- and proud. This was just another tanker one or two of the welders standing near me d about how neat she was. They all obviously wanted the honor of helping to saw the ship his tanker had been some 90 days in building. bigger, better compartmented, with heavier eads, and with more protective guns than any ous tanker.

wo other tankers went into the water at the time. These three tankers will be ready to sea within a very short time. Each will 150,000 barrels of fuel. And there is a good chance that one of the three won't come back from the first trip out.

If we published the figures of submarine losses as we ought to do—because the enemy knows just about what they are—the country would be startled and shocked. That might dispel some of the slap-happy ideas that we have just about won the war because we get some good headlines in the paper.

The Germans know they are losing the air war. They are putting everything they have into the submarine now. Their subs are building far faster than we are sinking them, are far stronger than they were 20 years ago, are able to stay out far longer, have better detection devices, and in every way have gone ahead much faster than our anti-submarine measures have gone.

We are still experimenting. We haven't decided yet the place that the airplane should have in fighting the submarine although we may be forced to decide it soon because we simply are not going to have enough escort vessels to do the job this summer, and we must lean on the airplane.

If we had been on our toes we surely would have gone after those German submarine pens along the French coast before they were put under that heavy concrete protection.

General Ira Eaker, American air chief in Europe, says he is soon to have numbers of super-fortresses and that American planes will do as much bombing as the RAF. That's going to take gasoline, 2,000 gallons every time you send up a present model Fortress. It must all be sent from here. All motorized equipment must run on fuel from here.

And everything else depends on American ships running on the lines to the United Kingdom, to North Africa and to Russia.

Last year about 60 tankers were built in the United States. This year we may build almost double that.

But what's the use of bragging about breaking records in shipbuilding? The Germans brag that this record-breaking production is mostly sent to the bottom of the ocean. They are breaking a record, too.

Can't Print That!

(A compendium of tales that can't be told h names, because they're too true to print. you find in them any resemblance to actual rsons, living or dead — you've probably ssed right!)

HT out of tomorrow's headlines is the cap- ivating saga of the French sailor with a will a way of his own. Just after the Richelieu ed in New York, this sailor—who we'll call ges, because that isn't his name—took a turn the town and ended up at a popular service- s canteen.

n apple-cheeked, likeable youngster, Georges was the beau of the ball, and every hostess with whom he danced—and that included just about every hostess in the place—was only too glad to help him out when he confided shyly that he'd left his money in his other uniform, and needed carfare to get back to his hotel. Each hostess was a trifle surprised to hear that his hotel was located so far away the carfare was $3, but each (not knowing that Georges was using the same polite game l the others) gladly shelled out. And when d covered a hundred per cent of the available ory, Georges smiled sweetly, kissed the hands l his benefactresses, and disappeared into the ast week each of the hostesses received a card Georges, postmarked from Canada. The gal- gob admitted that he had pulled the "carfare" in order to get enough money to take him to da and the Free French forces, and promised y back the money as soon as he could.

ut you can't print that. Because the "twist" s: All the hostesses had borrowed the money one of the canteen's officials—who is terrified that word of his unknowing contribution to the cause of Free France will get back to his employers in the state department.

Jessie is young and pretty and such a good actress that even severe critics of "pin up girls" admit she has a bright future in the movies.

She was a model who went west with a two-week contract and ten years worth of dreams. But for months she saw 'the gateman more than the casting director and her career progressed rapidly in the direction of oblivion. It was a Christmas day—and not so long ago—when her next door neighbor heard the sound of bitter tears and came over to see if he could avert what seemed to be a promising tragedy.

He was Lennie, a young man of some note in the town, and a trifle cynical—but her beauty and her tears melted him, and when she confided that her purse, her cupboard and her hopes were empty, he was inspired to do something about it. He reached for the telephone and called his agent.

"Joe, you no-good such and such," he said. "I have supported you for aeons, during which time your only labor was to come around and borrow money. Now you're going to pay it back—by getting this girl a contract today!"

So on Christmas morning a yawning casting director was roused out of his bed by a desperate agent and he signed our heroine to the six months contract that gave her a start toward her present eminence.

Of course, the tale has a sequel. Two years later Jessie was an important star and one evening when she was in a restaurant glittering modestly with her mother, she spotted Lennie and yoo-hoo'd to him.

"I want you to meet my mother," she cooed. "Mother, this is—Mr.—I'm so sorry, I just can't remember your name!"

But you can't prove that. Why brother? It's no news to Hollywood or Broadway that girls with long eyelashes often have short memories.

N HOLLYWOOD-- By Robbin Coons

LLYWOOD— Among your other notes on the progress of civilization, you may record today giving a lady a bath in the movies takes a of a lot less time than it used to.

ack in 1925, when Don Greenwood assisted s first cinema bath, it was not unusual for a or to keep a lady soaking three, four, five or longer.

on, who is a chief property man, remembers that Lillian Rich, the heroine of this first lady-dunking experience of his simmered in the tub for nearly five days. Miss Rich simmered in warm milk, that being one of Cecil B. (for Bathtub?) DeMille's lusher ideas for mixing glamour with plumbing. The picture was "The Golden Bed."

Coons

The other day Don officiated at a bath scene featuring the curvesome charms of Miss Betty as "Sweet Rosie O'Grady." Miss O'Grady, his time in her story's development, was ly prosperous as a bustled belle of Gay Nine- musical comedy, and she had a bathroom on DeMille himself might have cast an appre- eye. Her tub was full- length, like modern ns, and its sides were encased in polished

e set was closed that day - not because Miss Grable is coy about appearing in a bathing suit under a blanket of foamy bubbles, but because the day before somebody had spread the word that Betty would be bathing, and folks just couldn't resist the urge to see how moving pictures were made. Serious students of cinema art sprang out from crevices in the walls, from under rocks.

"She was in the tub only a day and a half," says Don, "and not steadily at that. Seems to me the directors are more careful about their players' catching cold than they used to be. She got out of the water when they weren't shooting and wrapped herself in a lot of towels. They didn't seem to care much, in the old days, whether so much soaking irritated the player's skin, either. I've seen some of them come out of the tub all red and wrinkled from too much soap and water."

Bathmaster Greenwood recalls regretfully that Dolores Del Rio once, for a bathtub scene in "The Red Dancer," stayed dunked a whole day—from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.—after which Miss Del Rio was more than slightly water-logged.

"We've got more help on bathing nowadays," he says. "We used to have to haul the water, keep it hot, and mix up the foam bath. Got the ingredients from a pharmacy, mixed it ourselves, and filled the tub. Today we get the same stuff already mixed—it keeps its bubbles whereas ordinary soap bubbles burst. Now the unions make these baths easier for prop men—they get a plumber to fix the water, and a heating man to keep it warm."

BUCYRUS FIRM GETS 'E' AWARD AT CEREMONIES

Speaker Lauds Small Plants For Their Part In War Production Drive.

BUCYRUS—Importance of the small industrial plant in the war production program was emphasized yesterday at ceremonies marking the presentation of the Army-Navy "E" award to the Swan Rubber company in Bucyrus, the second firm in the city to receive the coveted award.

Major part of the program was in the school auditorium Friday afternoon. A dinner for 275 employes of the company was held in the evening at the Elks club.

Formal presentation of the "E" award was made by Commander W. L. Turney of the Bureau of Ships, Washington, D. C., to President Nussbaum of the Swan company.

"We consider the war plant workers as our true comrades in arms," Commander Turney said. "Without implements it would be as foolhardy as sending our soldiers into battle with hands tied."

Telling the crowd at the afternoon ceremonies that small war plants are "the Main streets of America," Carl E. Bolte, representing the WPB small war plant division, said "Swan has proved that the smaller war plant is practical. Of the total number of war plants now in production in this country, 169,000 employ fewer than 100 persons each."

In accepting the pennant which was hoisted to the top of a flag pole erected on the stage by the color guard of Bucyrus post, 181, American Legion, President Nussbaum said, "The cooperation of my employes has made this honor possible. My only regret is that the 97 men who are in the service are not here to share this honor."

"Too little, too late' has been replaced with the new American slogan 'All that is needed, ahead of schedule'," said Major Spottswood Duke of Fort Hayes, Columbus, who presented the "E" award pin to Arthur C. Mollencopf, oldest employe in point of service, who accepted in behalf of the employes. "There will be no negligence on our part to mar this honor," Mollencopf pledged in h brief acceptance speech.

Lt. cr. John T. Gard is of the U. S. navy, office of public relations, Cleveland, took over the presentation of the pins to employes with the assistance of visiting army and navy officers as they passed from the auditorium.

Other invited guests of honor included Capt. Allan Farquhar, USN, Washington, D. C.; Lieut. Edward Wilson, USN, officer of public relations; Lieut. A. E. Heiser, USNR, inspector of naval material, Mansfield; Lieut. Col. Frank E. Cheshire, USA, Post Commandant, Camp Millard, Bucyrus; Major H. D. Van Bockern, USA, Scioto Ordnance plant, Marion; Hon. Frederick C. Smith, Washington, D. C., Lieut. J. D. Sears, USA, Camp Atterbury, Ind., and "Dusty" Miller, Wilmington, O., humorist.

TASTE NO FOOD IN TWO YEARS

Lye Victims, Fed Through Their Stomachs, Reported Well on Way to Recovery.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Concerning rationing and enough to eat?

Then consider two youngsters in University hospital here who haven't tasted food in more than two years.

Five-year-old Eugene Blevins, son of Mrs. Alice Blevins of South Webster, and Betty Dell Clarkson, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clarkson of Canton, both "eat" through tubes inserted into their stomachs through abdominal walls. Both are thriving and may leave the hospital soon.

The physician directing their care, a faculty member of Ohio State university's medical college who requested anonymity, said both children accidentally swallowed lye and that resulting scar tissue prevents normal passage of food into their stomachs.

Betty entered the hospital in April, 1941, about six months after she swallowed the poison and Eugene in October, 1940, a month after his accident.

Both children receive a special diet of high vitamin content and are fed every four hours around the clock.

Their physician said Eugene would go to nearby Nightingale cottage for the outdoor facilities it provides "in a week or so" and that Betty Dell probably would go home to her parents in "three or four weeks."

The physician said both children lately have been able to drink small quantities of water and predicted they eventually would be able to eat normally.

Up and Down THE STREET

Mansfielders so far haven't come around to eating horse meat, but out in Los Angeles choice horse meat steaks are selling for 40 and 45 cents a pound. M. G. Boyer, former Mansfielder now living in Los Angeles, sends an advertisement clipped from a newspaper which quotes prices and urges patrons to "Try a horse steak—It's delicious." Shank and plate cuts were listed at 12½ cents per pound, chuck roasts at 29 cents, filet mignon at 50 cents, T-bone steaks at 40 cents, and "hamburger" at 25 cents a pound. "You be the judge, and you'll be a repeat customer like thousands of others who have proclaimed horse meat as delicious," the advertisement said.

Mrs. Elizabeth Brackins, 571 Lily street, became aggravated early today, her husband told police, because he wouldn't go out and play in the pre-dawn hours. So, according to a report by Police Captain Paul Whipp, Lieut. Eugene Hartnett and Patrolmen Carl Beard and Glen Adams, Elizabeth apparently sought to get John out by setting the house afire. Central station firemen responding to an alarm at 3:30 a. m., said the loss was confined to a window curtain and dresser scarf and part of the dresser. This morning Mrs. Brackins was fined $5 and costs by Municipal Judge H. H. Schettler on the charge of intoxication.

A shipment of 25 cleverly decorated coffee cans has left the Mansfield Red Cross office for national headquarters where they will be distributed among nurses leaving for service overseas. Another project of the Junior Red Cross, the containers are used by the nurses to carry the three pounds of cold cream allowed them when they leave the country. To please the feminine vanity, the Junior Red Crossers have decorated the cans in colorful, catching ways.

MAP PLANS FOR SCHOOL CLINIC

City-County Health Officials Arranging Program to Check New 1st-Graders.

Plans for the annual examination of pre-school age children in Mansfield and Richland county were put in operation this week by Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, and members of the two staffs.

Efforts are being made to complete the physical check-up of rural and village children during April and of Mansfield youngsters in May. Dr. Mabel Emery, who will conduct the examinations, is arranging schedules to conform to her required duties in connection with the National Youth Administration center. She will be assisted by city and county nurses.

Several hundred youngsters who are destined to become first-graders next fall will be checked by the physician and nurses. The chart of each boy or girl will note all physical defects, together with remedial recommendations. Thereafter routine examinations will be made to determine extent of compliance to or benefits of the recommendations.

Early closing of county schools will require that the tests be made in April, Wild said. They will be conducted in school centers over the county. Parents of children who will enter school next fall are to be notified of the district examination dates.

In Mansfield the examinations will be made in the clinic at the health offices, third floor of City hall.

BIGGEST BUDGET GOES TO HOUSE ON WEDNESDAY

Action Expected on Measure That Will Raise Pay of Many State Employes.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—The $369,000,000 general appropriations bill, most important measure to come before the Ohio legislature, probably will be voted out and recommended for passage by the house finance committee this coming Wednesday, Committee Chairman Paul Ballard (R.-Jackson) said today.

The measure will include a pay raise for nearly all state employes, including those earning over $2,000 but not over $3,000, which will be "retroactive in some form or other" to Jan. 1 of this year, Ballard said.

With passage of two other very important measures which heretofore have been stymied in committee being urged by the governor's office, the general assembly thus far faces its most important week of its session. The bills which Governor Bricker, Thursday, urged legislative leaders to bring out of committee are the Kane bill, to repeal the sales tax on restaurant meals and prescription medicines, and the Ross measure, to relax standards for the employment of women for the duration as an aid to the war effort.

The Kane bill already has passed the senate, but for some unexplained reason has been locked in the house taxation committee since Jan. 28. With its passage as an emergency measure, Ohio taxpayers immediately would pay about $11,000 a day less sales taxes.

With gubernatorial pressure behind them, the two bills, which might have died in committee without the governor's intervention, probably can secure enough votes in the overwhelmingly-Republican legislature to pass. If they should come out in this coming 13th week of the session, the solons are in for a busy time.

The budget bill, however, is the really important measure. Without it there would be no provision for the financial operation of the state department.

It was learned from an unimpeachable source that there will be several amendments which will effect important changes in the bill. One of the changes will be to provide pay raises for those earning more than $12,000 a year, Ballard admitted.

ILLNESS FATAL

Mrs. Ella Fronta, 72, Had Been Ill Several Weeks.

GUILTY, MURDER PLEA OF SOLDIER

'Sorry It Happened,' Private Says After Admitting He Killed Waitress.

Sheriff A. H. French and appeared rested after his four days of hiding out in a wood lot and a barn east of Bucyrus without food or water. He said he slept well last night.

Mrs. Reed was choked and beaten to death Sunday night or early Monday in the apartment Bevard had occupied with her when he was away from camp. Her body was found Monday afternoon, and a search started for Bevard who was absent without leave from Camp Millard and was known to have been with her Sunday night.

The soldier walked into camp at midnight Thursday, wan and dishevelled, and later confessed the murder to Prosecutor Leo Scanlon and Chief of Police Arthur Stuckert, the authorities said.

He admitted he had a wife and five children in Illinois and could not marry Mrs. Reed whom he had known in Illinois. Her body was taken there for funeral services and burial today.

Bevard yesterday led authorities to the C. J. Durrigg farm on State Route 96, three miles northeast of Bucyrus, where he said he hid three days and two nights. He spent Monday night in a woodlot near Bucyrus, leaving Mrs. Reed's apartment about 5 a. m. Monday after remaining with the body for several hours.

Bevard's left hand was bruised as the result of Mrs. Reed's biting him, he said. He was unable to explain bruises on his right hand.

Authorities today were still unable to learn the cause of the argument which Bevard said preceded the slaying. He denied that he was jealous because of her reported attentions to another man, adding that they had quarreled some Sunday night because he scolded her for "spending too much money for beer."

Bevard, inducted into the army last November at Peoria, Ill., has been at Camp Millard for several weeks. Authorities learned he had been sharing the Bucyrus apartment with Mrs. Reed for about three weeks.

GAINS SUPPORT FOR TAX BILL

Administration Says Debate Costs GOP Votes For Ruml Plan.

out of the maximum 209 which the GOP can muster. But he added that the defections from the Democratic side "will offset that."

Meantime, advocates of a compromise between the Ruml plan and the administration's bill appeared to be making little headway. In the foreground was still the CIO-endorsed compromise advanced by Reps. Robertson (D.) Va., and Forand (D.) Va., which would forgive only 75 per cent of the 1942 tax liability instead of 100 per cent as proposed under the Ruml plan.

The Robertson-Forand proposal has the support of a sizeable number of southerners and the so-called house liberal bloc, but it has not yet proved attractive to a majority of the Democrats and Republicans.

Numerous other compromises, all forgiving some part of the 1942 liability, have failed to win any noticeable support so far, and house leaders continued to predict that when a vote is reached next week it will be a clear-cut fight between the Ruml plan and the administration's bill.

This measure, which Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau says has the "100 per cent backing of the administration," would retain the present year-late system of collecting taxes but would offer "incentive" discounts ranging from 1 to 6 per cent to persons willing to pay two years' taxes in one year to get on a current pay-as-you-go basis.

With two days of debate already under their belts and two more to follow, the Republicans appeared to have launched a definite movement to pin the "loan-shark" label on the bill. Figures purporting to show that hard-pressed taxpayers have already borrowed $600,000,000 at rates ranging from 30 to 240 per cent, touched off the fireworks yesterday.

RUSH ON MEAT CLOSES STORES

Market Proprietors Doubt If They'll Have Meat on Hand For Monday Rationing.

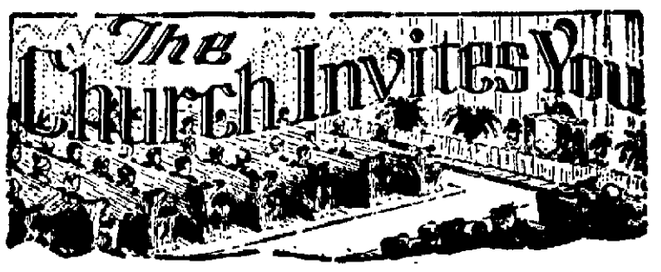
customers began to line up as early as 1:30 a. m. and virtually all meat was gone from the stands by 10 a. m.

Clevelanders were lined up before markets at 3 a. m. and many shops closed long before 10 a. m., some having supplies for only a few minutes. Frank C. Jeroski, Cleveland's city commissioner of markets for the last 24 years, declared he never had witnessed such a rush. "People have just gone crazy," he declared. "We won't have any meat left before long. A lot will get more than enough and a lot won't get any."

Meat shortages in greater Cincinnati and Dayton were both brought to the attention of the OPA in an effort to keep the residents of these two cities from a "meat famine."

Regional Director Birkett L. Williams said in Cleveland that rationing was no guarantee that meat consumer purchasing problems would end. He explained many consumers obtained more than normal supplies, draining dealers' stocks this week, and that retailers could not accumulate because no freeze had been ordered in advance of rationing.

In Washington, Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown said today that "it is the hope of the OPA that we can in the future allow the American housewife more meat for her ration stamps than has been set out in the original tables."



John D. Rockefeller, jr., says, "Countless as are the needs of the present world, none is greater than its need of spiritual power, something to lift man above the sordidness of materialism; something to cause him to look up, not in; up, not down, to help him turn defeat of his selfish purposes into victorious living for others."

That "something" about which Mr. Rockefeller is speaking is found in the church whose most helpful program is the Sunday service of worship. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

—D. Carl Yoder.

The American Bible society recently shipped 400 Bibles, 700 New Testaments, 1,500 Psalms and 3,500 Gospels and Acts by the way of the Cape of Good Hope for ultimate use by American prisoners of war and interns in Japan.

A total of 6,000 public, university, and normal school libraries throughout the country co-operated in the first nation-wide observance of Religious Book Week, which was held March 28-April 3 under the auspices of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, it was announced here.

Plans for the establishment of a memorial fund honoring the memory of the late Dr. George Washington Carver, are being studied by the interracial committee of the public affairs department of the Detroit Council of Churches. Among the proposals being considered is the establishment of a "Christian Foundation of Interracial Brotherhood," from which grants would be made for the education of American youth for full time service in "the realization of Dr. Carver's great ideals for America and his race.

WIT AND WISDOM

If a Dollar Bill Should Pray.

The fellow who got this off his chest said quite a mouthful: If I were a Dollar Bill: I'd pray that my boss would take me to church some Sunday and leave me there on that little plate with the velvet cushion which the usher passes around—you know. I think I'd feel so kind of important and "snooty" among those nickels and pennies and buttons and things. I've seen enough filling stations on Sunday to last me for a lifetime anyway; I'd like to look up at a preacher for a change.

Drive carefully tomorrow—and remember to get your new license sticker before next Thursday.

With the ban lifted on manufacture of alarm clocks, there may be a reduction in tardiness, if not in absenteeism.

Congress Disapproves Salary Ceiling

ACTION by congress in setting aside President Roosevelt's executive order fixing $25,000 as the net limit for salaries seems more intended to establish the fact that the president has no such authority than to encourage an idea that sky-high salaries are fully approved.

As it now takes a salary around $67,000 a year to net $25,000 after tax requirements have been met, the question is academic rather than personally applicable to any considerable number of people.

The idea of fixing a $25,000 ceiling originated with American communists, later won approval by Mrs. Roosevelt and eventually became an executive order by the president—who is now overruled by congress.

Just why $25,000 was the amount decided upon as "reasonable" is not clear, unless that is a figure which Mr. Roosevelt's personal experience had indicated as an irreducible minimum for comfortable living in the environment of inherited wealth.

If, however, a salary limit of $25,000 could be fixed by executive order, some successor to the present incumbent—unaccustomed to luxurious surroundings—might regard $10,000 a year, or $5,000, or even $1,500, as ample to meet all needs and provide incentive to effort—and act accordingly.

Rather than being arbitrarily fixed by an executive exercising dictatorial power, a salary—large or small—should be legitimately earned by performance of service commensurate with compensation. ANY salary is too large for those who do not give at least equal value in return for what they receive.

Bromfield for Conservation Post

MENTION that Louis Bromfield, Richland county author and agriculturist, is being considered for appointment to the state conservation and natural resources commission has occasioned much favorable comment over the state.

Whatever deserved success Bromfield has enjoyed as an author, he is basically a farmer. His interests run so definitely to agriculture and to the conservation and development of natural resources that no opportunity should be lost to direct his talents and enthusiastic activities into these channels.

Then, too, his name is becoming intimately associated with state and national farm problems and a position on the state conservation commission would increase his opportunities, through writing and speaking on these subjects, to broaden his scope of influence in behalf of agricultural advancement and all phases of conservation.

As the position is non-salaried, and involves considerable expenditure of time, requirement is for a capable person who is sufficiently interested, and so situated, as to serve without compensation. If Mr. Bromfield is willing to accept the appointment there can be no doubt as to his qualifications and enthusiastic interest.

Fire Losses Affect Everybody

DURING the first World war, President Wilson declared that: "Preventable fire is more than a private misfortune. It is a public dereliction. At a time like this, of emergency and of manifest necessity for the conservation of national resources, it is more than ever a matter of pressing consequence that every means should be taken to prevent this evil."

Those words now ring with new significance. President Wilson knew that every home and factory, every man, woman and child were part of our national resources. The maximum strength of these resources is vital to military victory. In the last quarter century, preventable fire has destroyed billions of dollars worth of property and countless thousands of lives.

What is gone cannot be reclaimed. The problem now is to curb future fire waste. To do that people must learn that fire prevention is primarily an individual responsibility. Cluttered attics, piles of oily rags, faulty insulation, and inadequate extinguishing equipment are just a few of the causes of fire. Fire ordinances may outlaw fire hazards on paper, but enforcement is impossible without the help of individuals.

What Do People Really Want?

ARE ALL Germans warlike? Dorothy Thompson does not think so. "People are the same all over the world," she says in her new book, "Listen, Hans," and they want the same things.

> "They want to live in their own countries in their own way, and have something to say about the way they are governed. They want to eat three meals a day that taste good. They want to have children and keep those children around them, and be able to tell those children what they have learned from life. They want to be able to speak without wondering whether they are speaking to a spy. They want to stop having to go to war every 20 years; and if in the world we live, with its immense possibilities of production and the exchange of goods, we cannot achieve this, why let's give it back to the ants."

If any large portion of the Germans could be counted on not merely to feel this way, but to act accordingly, abandoning all delusions of grandeur, half the problems of the peace conference after the war would be solved.

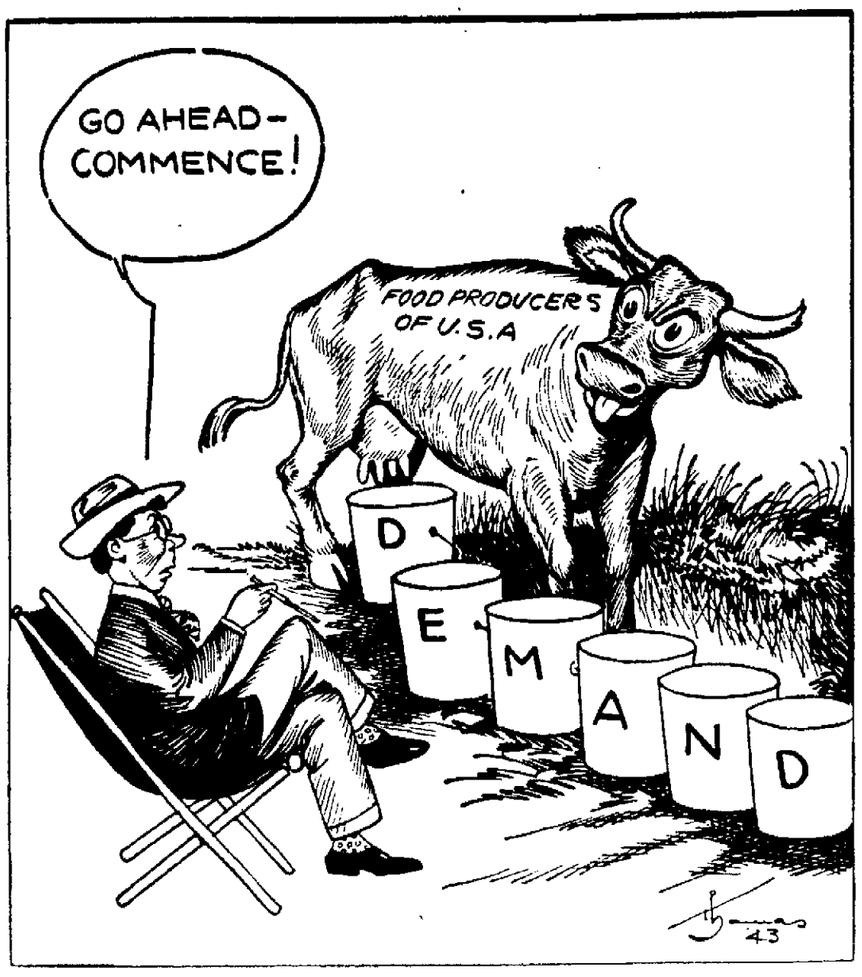
Call for Unused Bicycles

BICYCLES are badly needed for the war effort. Every war worker who cycles to his job, or every child who uses this way to get to school, relieves by just so much the strain on overburdened buses and street cars. The Office of Defense Transportation suggests that a search of attics and cellars would probably turn up several hundred thousand badly needed bicycles.

Even if they are in bad shape, with one tire ruined, or essential parts out of kilter, they can either be made serviceable or can furnish parts for other machines.

With automobiles forced out by the war, golf discouraged because no one has gasoline to drive to golf courses, and weather forecasts forbidden by the government, what will some folks have left to talk about?

A WASHINGTON DIRECTIVE



Fad of Anarchism Now Extinct

By CHARLES P. STEWART

ODD how completely the philosophy of Anarchism has been lost sight of in the current generation's jam of Communism, Nazism, Fascism and Falangism.

About 50 years ago Anarchism had quite a formidable following, of worldwide proportions. It had no such locally dominant organizations as some of our more modern "isms" have today. When a group of its disciples attempted an outbreak in some particular area, the normal authorities there suppressed it in a hurry.

If early believers in Anarchism had been able to concentrate upon some comparatively limited piece of real estate and hang onto it for half a generation, as did the Fascists and Nazis, they might have, today, a modicum of results to point to, pridefully.

But the weakness of Anarchy, is that it cannot concentrate.

Its fundamental principle is, simply, "no government of any kind."

Therefore, it totally lacks direction and sprawls around in every direction, getting nowhere. Anarchists generally are rated as awful outlaws. In reality they are simply super-cranks (or were, for none of them are left now), of a very Christian type, if permitted to get away with it.

Their theory is that nobody should boss anybody.

If the thing would work, it would be the ultimate of democracy, but it is like saying there is no evil, which, if correct, is only theoretically so.

I think this altruistic dope probably dates back into the beginning of the Christian era, but it was not until the early 1880's that Prince Peter Kropotkin of Russia really began to publicize it. The prince, as one of the czar's subjects, naturally had had his experience with the ills of outright despotism. He fought them effectively—of course from exile.

But when the time was ripe for Kropotkinistic readjustment of Russia, Prince Peter was out of the picture and Nikolai Lenin was Communistically "it," with himself as dictator. Then, presently, Joset Stalin took over.

Anarchy and Communism are the positive and the negative of an ideal. The Anarchists, though, have gone flooey completely.

Yet the fact is that they do have a forgotten influence not here in the United States alone.

We had a good-sized uprising of them in Chicago in the 1880's. It was of sufficient proportions to have cost some lives. And we bumped off half a dozen of the disturbers following the celebrated Haymarket riots there. Other countries had their frictions, too. All of them were of Anarchistic origin.

All its followers wanted was "no government." When they rioted, it was in resistance to being dictated to by any authority whatever.

Today's totalitarian cults aim, each of them, at the establishment of some sort of a definitely outlined system, that its advocates probably really believe in—at first, at least. Personal ambition eventually gets its grip on them, and they cease to be even well-meaning.

But, from start to finish, their ideal is the development and maintenance of what they consider government—of course, with themselves running it absolutely and for their own benefit.

Government (bad, indifferent or good and no matter by whom imposed, an electorate or a despotism) was exactly what the original Anarchists not only refused to subscribe to, but resisted up to the limit of their ability. They were exceedingly remorseless about it, and made themselves violently unpopular among reasonable citizens of all nationalities.

Listen World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

You're Being Bombed!

DUCK! SCRAM! YOU'RE BEING BOMBED! You don't believe it. There are no planes roaring above, no deadly explosives hurtling through the air. The spring air's bland and sweet. There's death in Tunis, France. The Solomons. But you are safe—or so you think. And yet you're being bombed by something equally destructive to all your comfort and complacency—

You're being bombed by new ideas, and you'll have to hustle, plenty, if you wish to survive their blitz.

You can't blame it entirely on the war nor on the fiends who devised this war. These mental "bombs" would have come inevitably. They are part of the inescapable evolution of the human race. They accompany all growth. And a large portion of us ossify because we can't take them in our stride.

HAS IT EVER OCCURRED TO YOU THAT A NEW IDEA IS MUCH HARDER FOR MOST OF US TO FACE THAN THE DEADLIEST TORPEDO? IT IS.

You were born into a certain environment. You inherited certain emotions and ways of life which you absorbed as unconsciously as you breathe. For example, Dad was a Democrat or a Republican. He believed or rejected various social measures.

You didn't know what social measures were but if Dad was strong for them, that was jake with you. Just as his brand of socks or taste in pies was jake with you, for Dad, to your small adoration, was God.

MOTHER was perfect too. And she, likewise, had her particular ideas, enthusiasms, prejudices and taboos. Mrs. X was a nice woman. Mrs. Z wasn't. Sheets had to be hand hemmed. The Police Gazette was a wicked publication. Why? You didn't know. But if Mom said so, that was right. Yours not to reason why—yours just to string along. So you strung. And, by the time you left high school your thought patterns were definitely set. Unless you were a highly distinct individual, you simply carried on where Dad and Mom had left off.

You didn't know this. You thought you were different, misunderstood. And there had been clashes. You wanted to be an engineer—Mom wanted you to go on with your music. Dad favored a business career. Your mind was filled with thoughts of that Red Headed Gal you later married. You felt your world was infinitely removed from your parents. But actually, you had scarcely an original idea.

Then something happened. The Old Folks passed on. You took a new job . . . or went to college . . . or found yourself in World War No. 2 . . . in an utterly new and alien atmosphere, with your old ideas crumbling, faced with problems and standards of which you'd never dreamed.

You fought against it—argued yourself hoarse defending your way of life. But it was no dice. Your new friends kidded you . . . asked you where you'd been all this time . . . called you "Rip Van Winkle." They drew you, protesting, into habits and viewpoints which would have given Dad and Mom the screaming meamies. They gave you fits, too. You were bewildered, heartsick, unspeakably lonely. You couldn't adjust.

Yet was this new life really wrong or was it merely different? You couldn't tell. You didn't realize that these twinges, these gropings, were normal growing pains and you'd never be a grown-up man or woman without them.

Why did I say: "Scram! Duck! You're being bombed!" Because it is the fact. The most deadly war ammunition today isn't a bullet or a bomb, a mine or torpedo. It's the new outlook on life. Are you brave and elastic enough to face these new ideas and fight to find the real truth? Or are you frantically seeking the old escapes . . . trying to make the notions of 1903 fit the need and growth of 1943?

IF YOU DARE TO SEEK THE TRUTH YOU'LL SURVIVE AND BE A POWER. IF YOU'RE DETERMINED TO DUCK, YOU'LL GO OUT WITH THE BIG WIND, AND NEVER KNOW WHAT YOU'VE MISSED.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, March 27, 1923.

Mansfield owners of common stock in defunct Cleveland Discount company were told their "investment" was total loss.

Golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McGinty, Bowman street.

Mrs. W. W. Aungst, sr., 73, died at her home, 254 Park avenue east.

Miss Louise Bissman, student at Scudder school, New York, was home for the spring vacation.

Mrs. W. C. Mann and Mrs. W. L. Beckley were appointed to represent American Legion auxiliary at Toledo conference.

Henry Metley went to St. Petersburg, Fla., for a several weeks' stay.

J. G. Hamilton resigned as foreman of reformatory printing plant to take position in Wadsworth.

TODAY IN HISTORY

What is now the state of Florida was first sighted on this date in 1513 by Ponce de Leon, Spanish explorer, who was seeking the fabled "Fountain of Youth."

Dave Boone Says:

THAT'S a funny OPA ruling that if you're inviting guests to dinner there's no way for you to get enough food on your coupons, they'll have to bring along their own main course.

That is, if you plan to feed 'em anything except snouts and ears. Well, it's going to seem mighty strange asking some friends over for dinner and stipulating that it is up to them to co-operate on the supplies.

But once we get used to the idea, it may become a custom we will never want to break. If you know the Joneses always serve something you don't like you'll feel better toting along your own "vittles" anyhow. And vice versa.

The OPA says you can't shop for the dinner on your guests' cards. They'll have to show up at the butcher market with you in person. It sort of changes the whole thing from a mere dinner party to a safari and a joint business venture.

We Americans eat too much meat anyhow. I was talking with a hardy Scotsman the other day on this point and he said that he was twenty years old before he knew there was any food outside of gruel and porridge.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Study of Rationing Chart Brings Busy Week-End for Meat-Eaters

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

QUESTION of the week, in many American homes, was: Shall we shoot the works on pork chops (8 points) or have hamburger (5 points) or spare ribs (4 points) and have them oftener?

As OPA unveiled point values for meat rationing beginning March 29, harried housewives headed into another new wartime experience—how to make 16 points per person cover the requirements of meat, cheese, butter, salad and cooking oils, canned fish. It meant, on an average, about 2½ pounds of meat per member.

There was no assurance that even with ration coupons, the meat shortage would be relieved in many sections of the country. But OPA hoped the situation would shake down, help curb black markets, violation of price ceilings.

There was some consolation: The allowances virtually doubled those in effect in any European country, where limits range from England's 24 ounces of meats, butter and fats, to one in Norway, none at all in Greece.

Congress Takes Hand.

Great was the confusion and consternation—in some quarters—a few weeks ago when President Roosevelt's executive order nailed big salaries at a $67,200 gross limit, which meant a net of $25,000 after the payment of taxes.

But during the week, congress took the issue away from the president as the senate completed congressional action to repeal the order. To prevent a presidential veto, the cagey lawmakers tacked the amendment to an administration-sponsored bill legalizing an increase in the national debt limit.

Arnold Moves Up.

Henry Harley Arnold had cause this week to turn on the famous grin from which he gets his West Point nickname of "Happy." When the senate approved the president's nomination, Arnold became U. S. army's fourth full, four-starred general, ranking with Chief of Staff Marshall, Generals MacArthur and Eisenhower.

Arnold at 56 is the first airman to receive the army's highest rank. In 1911 he attended the Wright Brothers flying school at Dayton and became one of the army's first four flyers. He went to Washington in 1936, as assistant chief of the air corps, became chief in September, 1938.

He has seen, and more recently directed, the air corps' growth from four flyers to one of the three main branches of the army with about 1,500,000 men.

A President Eats.

Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt has the same trouble with her husband that so many housewives have with theirs: He's a hard man to cook for.

The president doesn't like vegetables. Mrs. Roosevelt told her press conference, so when vegetable prices go too high, she just doesn't buy them. She also has trouble varying his diet because "he rarely eats out" and it is difficult to find variety for the meals of a man who is always home to dinner.

The president now has switched from a morning cup of rationed coffee to a big glass of unrationed milk, cold. He hasn't sworn off coffee, is "very proud of himself" when he downs the glass of milk.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON Those who predicted there would be no changes in personnel or policies in the Office of Price Administration when ex-Senator Prentiss M. Brown took over were dead wrong.

Just what is happening to personnel hasn't been made public yet, but insiders say that soft-spoken, mild-mannered Mr. Brown has been whittling away at a lot of dead wood, chiefly recruits from the legal profession with which OPA has become overburdened.

On the score of policy, the one-time small-town Michigan peninsula lawyer and banker has taken an entirely different tack from that pursued by his predecessor, Leon Henderson. Henderson built OPA and the anti-inflation program with as tough a pair of brass-knuckled fists as have been swung around Washington. Brown continues to swing when he considers it necessary, but so far as Mr. and Mrs. Public is concerned, he tries to pad his fists with feather-beds.

"War is going to be tough enough on civilians without adding any unnecessary burdens," he said the other day. "I have instructed the staff of OPA to keep constantly alert to changing conditions and to relax any rationing rules without delay whenever it becomes possible to do so.

"Not a single OPA restriction is going to last one minute longer than is necessary," he continued.

Those observations followed Brown's orders permitting workers who couldn't get to and from work on B cards to get C cards and the removal of rationing restrictions on tire recapping for passenger cars and light trucks.

BECAUSE he is a former senator only a few months out of office, and was popular with many members of congress, Brown has probably heard more complaints of his agency than any other wartime executive. For that reason, he's probably closer to civilian reaction than any other person in a similar position in Washington. He is naturally a kindly and sympathetic person, and it's a safe bet that he will try to carry out his ban on "unnecessary burdens."

On the other hand, Brown has demonstrated that in his present job those mild manners of his go only so far. About a month ago, in one of his rare public addresses, he took the hide off his old colleagues in congress, charging them with impeding the war effort by "back-biting and under-the-table talk."

He scored several pending bills which he said would pierce the price ceilings and break down the whole anti-inflation program, and whipped into the bituminous coal industry situation with the declaration: "There must be no strike and there must be no compromise."

Henderson, at his best, never slugged out with any harder words than those.

AT THE moment, Brown's ire is up over the black markets, especially in meats, and he has directed his entire staff of some 1,500 investigators to give that their full attention. He has plenty to say about the "chiselers" and "black market gentry," but when it's all said he quite calmly concludes:

"When farmers, laborers and consumers fully appreciate the seriousness of the situation, they will drive the meat market racketeers out of business."

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"Pop says spring is the mating season . . . this morning it took us two hours to find the mate to one of my tennis shoes."

Quotes

Captain Eddie Rickenbacker: "You hear talk about an 11,000,000-man army. I say it will take 15,000,000 Americans in uniform to do the job that needs to be done, for we have the only manpower left. It will take thousands of victories like we have had to date to win this war."

Senator Robert A. Taft: "I believe we can solve the problem of unemployment, if the work is undertaken by people who believe in the free enterprise system, have sympathy with it, instead of those who did not have sympathy with it during the past 10 years."

As it fought through, Jack Mathis called "Bombs . . ." then was silent.

At the bombsight they found him, his body filled with shell fragments, his bombing arm almost torn off. Blown nine feet back in the passageway, he had crawled forward, released the bombs with his left hand, died as he swung the bomb bay control lever back to position.

People

Relayed Report.

When Pvt. Paul McLaughlin, 25, asked the chaplain of his Italian prison camp to notify his father, George McLaughlin, West Conshohocken, Pa., postmaster, he got international action.

The message went from the chaplain to the Vatican, to the secretary of state for the Papal See, then to the apostolic delegate in Washington. He relayed it to Monsignor J. Carroll McCormick, chancellor of the Archdiocese of Philadelphia who notified the Rev. Thomas L. Gaffney, Catholic priest at West Conshohocken.

Father Gaffney told McLaughlin his son, listed as missing since Christmas Eve, was safe after participating in the invasion of Casablanca.

Cool Customer.

It got cold in the Osceola, Neb., jail the night Charles Fetzer, 22, was locked up on a car stealing charge. So Fetzer picked the lock on his cell with a coat hanger, fired up the jail boiler and dutifully returned to his open cell.

"The sheriff treated me swell and gave me a duck dinner," Fetzer explained next morning. "I just couldn't run out on a good guy like that."

Curtains For Enforcer.

Frank Nitti was a swarthy, scowling link with the homicidal days of pre-repeal Chicago. A cousin of Scarface Al Capone, he was "The Enforcer" to the old mob, the lieutenant who saw that the orders were carried out.

Federal income tax laws and repeal ended Capone's career, but not Nitti's. He took over the syndicate, became the boss of Chicago's underworld, built up a lucrative business in extortion and racketeering.

Last week in New York, Frank Nitti and nine other men were indicted by the government on charges of extorting more than $1,000,000 from motion picture film companies. A few hours later Nitti was dead, a gun-suicide along a railroad track in a Chicago suburb.

Abroad

No Victory This Year.

Every Briton knows that when the Allies invade Europe it will come with the suddenness of a bomb explosion, and upon the successful keeping of a secret will depend the lives of tens of thousands of fighting men.

But the Britons, like the Americans, expect their war leaders to furnish the assurance that the invasion will come—and soon.

So, there was mild surprise throughout the Isles last week when Winston Churchill made his first speech since the Casablanca conference, the longest one since he became prime minister—and then devoted most of it to post-war domestic problems.

If there had been hopes for a victory over the Axis in 1943, Churchill cooled them with the declaration that "some time next year—but it may well be the year after—we might beat Hitler, by which I mean beat him and his powers of evil into death, dust and ashes."

Thunder In Tunisia.

Allied spirits rose as two drives in Tunisia pressed on, for the belief was general that until the North African battle was decided, there would be no invasion of Europe.

But there was caution in the optimism, for Rommel had shown in February that when things looked worst for him, he could hit hard. He is likely, experts agreed, to demonstrate it again before North Africa passes finally to the Allies.

For weeks, General Montgomery had waited at the Mareth Line while his supplies and communications were built up over the 1,400-mile victory highway back through Egypt. But when he moved, he shot the works, leading with his artillery, then with his light planes, then with his heavy bombers and his powerful mobile equipment.

During the week, as the tide continued to run against Rommel, the Americans moved into Maknassy again, this time to occupy it as the Germans and Italians retreated to the north.

Unfinished Message.

Aboard the Flying Fortress "Duchess" it was always the occasion for a cheer when the objective was reached and the voice of 20-year-old bombardier Jack Mathis came over the intercommunications system, "Bombs away!"

Last week the "Duchess" roared over the Vegesack submarine yards near Bremen, flew into a searing mass of anti-aircraft fire.

CHAPTER XXVII

Should he go back in and try o stop Evelyn? She did not re-lize what she was doing. Should e remind her of Charlotte and Dick? She was his wife. His wife . . . What made a wife? A li-ense and a few words said over ou? Dear God, no . . . Evelyn ad never been his wife. What Evelyn had been you could not old. The bonds were too slight. They could never be held or made nduring because such bonds were ound to die.

Sitting on the ledge of the bal-ony, his hands were strangely teady. Why did Rand Andrews ant Evelyn? He thought, "Why id I want her? The same rea-on" . . . He thought of what ila had said last night about and and it was as though he, ill, could see into the handsome and leader's mind . . . Evelyn as what Rand Andrews needed id wanted to complete his suc-ess. A beautiful wife with a dis-nguished name once the Sturte-ant part of it was dropped.

Hollywood would go for that. velyn, sister-in-law of Richard toddard, the Richard Stoddard. velyn with her European past id expensive schooling and back-round. To Rand, Evelyn was ot merely beautiful. She was so a lady, a term that had be-me increasingly important to a ung man who was on his way ward making a million dollars. id when you have made a mil-on dollars, you get ideas about lo and yachts and etiquette. it you know that some doors ll be closed to you even with ur million dollars if you haven't mething else. Evelyn was that omething else." She was Rand's tree into the better things of e. She was part of the picture. e completed his dizzy cycle up-ard. She was his final reward.

He thought, "I won't tell her I ven't a job."

When he went back to the om, he saw that her bags and nks were packed. One cream-lored trunk and three cream-lored bags and one small bag her jewelry. That was all e was taking. That was all e had brought when she came d that was all she was taking en she left. The furniture, the na and the silver meant noth-to her.

When she came out of the throom, she was wearing a rk red suit with a matching t. Her hair was sleek again, face smooth, her mouth per-tly put on. The suit was new. I had not seen it before. He would never see it again except as an item on a bill.

She stopped still and looked at him.

Bill's mouth twisted into a shamed smile. He was ashamed, horribly ashamed of the scene in the early spring morning, he in pajamas and robe and needing a shave, Evelyn in traveling clothes, her belongings packed beside her, the bedroom in disorder and smelling of cigarets. The end . . . The end of what for him had been a tender and passionate and beautiful thing, a brilliant meteor across his sky . . . Ugly and sordid now, tenderness dissolved into pity, all passion spent, the meteor a dead dull stone . . . The only passion he felt now was the passionate longing for her to go.

He said, "Well, Evelyn . . ."

Only for an instant did she look ashamed. Then her eyes were bright and anxious. "I'll have to take the car into town."

"That's all right. Just leave it at the station . . . I'll make the necessary arrangements with my attorney." For the second time! "And, Evelyn, I'd appreciate it if you would go about it quietly and not have any publicity. Do you want any money?"

"No, I have money."

Rand had given her money.

"Have you — have you everything you'll want?"

"I have all of my things."

"I mean about the furniture and wedding presents."

"Oh, I don't want any of them."

"Shall I write to Charlotte?"

She stiffened. "No, I'll write her."

"Then — then there isn't anything else, is there?"

"No, Bill, there isn't."

"Haven't you anything to say?"

Again she was annoyed that he was delaying her. "I . . ."

"I know," he said. "You're sorry. Not only for this but for all of it. So am I. It was a mistake. In four little words we can sum it all up—the breaking up of homes and hearts. It was all my fault, Evelyn. You don't owe me an apology. You don't owe me a thing. I wish you luck. I hope you'll be happy."

"Thank you." She looked at her trunk and bags helplessly.

"I'll carry them down," Bill said. "You go ahead and open the garage and get the car out."

They said no more until she was sitting at the wheel of the car.

Then Bill said, "Good-bye, Evelyn."

"Good-bye, Bill."

And she was gone quickly and quietly down the road on which the dew had laid the dust.

He didn't feel anything except the chill of the morning through the silk robe and the thin slippers.

Turning, he went back to the house to shave and to take a shower.

Five hours after Evelyn had made a grand entrance into the Clinton station, an entrance which unfortunately was witnessed by only a few tired people. Bill made an inconspicuous one and bought an inconspicuous one-way ticket to New York.

Carol and Freda and Ian were sitting in long-backed white chairs on the flagstone terrace in the rear of the Kelly home. After dinner Freda had suggested the terrace since the night was warm and it was Ian's favorite summer spot. Now they sat quietly, the women wearing light cool frocks and Ian white linen, the lighted cigarets of the women stabbing the darkness more frequently than the mild blaze from Ian's pipe.

All about them were the sounds and scents of a summer night mingling with the soft music coming from a phonograph in the living-room. A short while before, young Ian had come to say good-night and had bolted off like an unbridled colt, his foosteps resounding through the big house.

This was civilized living, Carol was thinking, her eyes on a distant star. Inconceivable the terror abroad in the world, the suffering, the peril, the desperate night-watching, the desperate night-dreading.

Wasn't this what all small, obscure people wanted, the small, obscure people who make up most of the world—this quiet after a busy day, a child sleeping in the house, this enduring partnership of the two who had caused the child and built the house?

If she began to wonder where Bill was, she would be lost in her thoughts for hours to come.

Hostess China Company Gives Rules for Choosing Glassware

Browns Invite Lovers Of Fine Glass to Browse at Shop

Women everywhere are today becoming more and more conscious of the thrilling new part fine crystal is playing as a decorative theme for modern table settings.

Lovers of fine crystal will thrill to the fascinating beauty of the new Cambridge Highlighted Etchings now being shown at the Hostess China company in the Southern hotel building.

These masterpieces in handmade crystal are richly highlighted by an improved process which reveals a luminous beauty utterly unlike ordinary "frosted" etchings. There's new-found depth and dimension to the designs. And the gossamer traceries, incomparably rich and lace-like, are literally alive with sparkling light.

Naturally, in selecting glass for your home, the first consideration should be the shape and kind to harmonize with the chinaware or other furnishings in the room in which it is to be used. You will have no difficulty in making a selection of Cambridge. A complete display of the Cambridge line would show more than 5000 separate pieces, each different in shape or size or emblishment. Many popular patterns are available in as many as 200 different pieces.

Edward H. Brown, proprietor of the Hostess China company says the question is often asked, "Isn't clear crystal always the most appropriate and best glassware to buy?" The answer, he says is emphatically, "No."

Brown, an authority on glassware, continues, "If a color best suits the motif of the room and of the table, then of course that is what you should select. Moreover, color brings variety and distinction to many settings. Glassware is something you will live with for years, and many people spend years acquiring a satisfactory balanced selection. Any extra time or care you spend in selecting it will be a good investment."

In order to give infinite variety to their table appointments Mr. Brown suggests that the accomplished hostess own several complete services of both colored and clear crystal. The well equipped crystal cabinet, he explains, does much to earn for the housewife the reputation of being a "marvelous hostess."

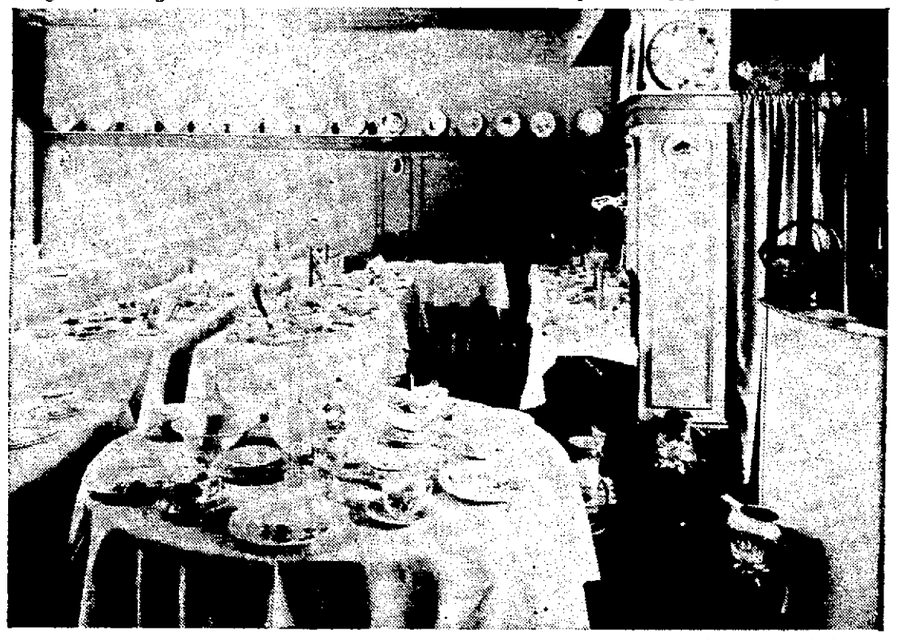
Both Mr. and Mrs. Brown will be happy to aid you in selecting your crystal and will welcome your visit to their shop whether you are buying or browsing. However, they suggest the following rules which they believe will enable you to recognize good glassware yourself.

The first requisite in fine glassware is beauty in the material itself. Colored crystal should be rich and sparkling. Clear crystal should be clear like spring water or a fine diamond. No amount of cutting or decorating will cover up a muddy or yellowish appearance. The true and lasting brilliance for which Cambridge Crystal is noted can easily be observed by comparison with ordinary glass.

Next, tap the edge of a goblet with your finger nail. Listen to the ring, the bell-like tone which indicates that the glass contains lead and potash, the two ingredients which give the strength and permanent brilliancy which fine glass should have. Lime glass has little or no ring.

The third point to consider is the kind and quality of embellishment. If it is an etched piece, even the most delicate detail should be clear and distinct, with no acid spots, with no unwanted breaks in the delicate lines, and with a real brilliance entirely lacking in inferior etchings. If it is a cut piece, the cuttings should be sharp and true.

The best assurance of all, however, is the trademark of the manufacturer. Every piece of Cambridge glass carries the little Cambridge seal, guaranteeing that it is a piece of handmade crystal of finest quality commensurate with its price.



The accompanying photo shows a portion of the varied display of china, glassware and decorative art pottery in the showroom of the Hostess China company, 4 South Park street.

Army Wife Writes Husband Letter Seven Feet Long

BAINBRIDGE, Ga., — (INS) — When Mrs. Harold Watson, wife of Pvt. Watson of the Bainbridge army air field, writes her husband a letter, she writes in a big way!

Pvt. Watson, upon receipt of a certain letter from his mate recently, let out a whoop that was heard for quite a distance.

The letter, all typed, contained 2,178 words. It was seven and a half feet long when pasted together, and it took Pvt. Watson a full day to read it.

Three of the seven feet of the epistle were devoted to news of family and friends and hometown doings.

Mrs. Watson lives in Newington, Conn.

Pvt. Watson declared that if he were to write a letter of similar length to his spouse, it would take him at least three months.

Ladies, please take note: Out of the seven feet of the letter, Mrs. Watson only asked four questions.

The Watsons were married April 18, 1942.

Madeleine Carroll Gives Up Glamor To Help Win War

MADELEINE CARROLL

Madeleine Carroll poured the milk into the saucepan as the snow fell through the darkness beyond the kitchen window. Watched the milk scald as the clock ticked 2 a. m. Sat down and sipped it—alone in the kitchen—as she thoughtfully reviewed her day.

A day far removed from her program as a Hollywood movie star. No cameras, klieg lights or fans in sight.

But work. And plenty of it. Work as special representative of the United Seaman's Service (the USO of the Merchant Marine). Morning meeting with a group of girls who wished to make a donation. A bout with the mail at the New York office. Speech at the Town Hall club. Appearance on her CBS daily radio program "Madeleine Carroll Reads." Dinner on the run. And an evening as hostess at the American Theater Wing Merchant Marine Canteen.

At the end of the day no housefull of servants to pamper a prima donna. No deft French maid to dab cologne on that famous "marble brow."

Instead a commuter's train to Connecticut, caught on the run after midnight. And hot milk alone in the kitchen—at 2 a. m.

"Is this a glamor life?" Madeleine Carroll asked herself.

Even a cat, looking at the one-time movie queen, would have had to answer, "No."

For the woman once known as filmdom's most beautiful blonde—still pretty as a gold and ivory picture—says she has "completely given up the movies." And that means giving up the trappings and glamor which surround a throne.

Madeleine Carroll, born in England of a French mother and an Irish father, queened it in Hollywood for years, after she joined the American film colony in 1934. After seven successful years she left Hollywood in January, 1941. Six months later she married Sterling Hayden, sailor and blond leading man of the movies. Now, while her husband serves in the United States marine corps, she lives in Norwalk, Conn., with her mother-in-law and shuttles back and forth to New York for her daily radio program and her work for the United Seaman's Service.

"My sister was killed in the London blitz a little more than a year ago," she told me. "Since then I have felt there was only one thing of importance—helping to win this war. I'm concerned about what is happening in France; my mother's people are there and 200 orphans I adopted are in my house in Paris.

"The job I have came about quite naturally. Before my husband joined the marines, he carried government cargoes from Florida to the West Indies in his schooner. I did his shore business and wound up his affairs for him after he entered service. In this connection I met Admiral Land, head of the Maritime Commission, and when I asked him what I could do in the war effort, he asked me to help with the United Seaman's Service..

"I was glad to do it. I have sailed with my husband and I know how seamen are treated in port and how few places there are for them to stay. Some hotels have signs 'No dogs or seamen allowed.' The United Seaman's Service has established headquarters for them in several United States ports and our aim is to establish similar headquarters in every seaport in the world where American seamen go. My job is to get recognition and sympathy for the seamen. After all, if we don't have them, we've lost the war."

THIEF HAD PREFERENCES

LOS ANGELES, Cal. —(U P)— A pass-key burglar, apparently intent only on preparing for a long-time hibernation in bed, passed up more valuable articles at the home of Mrs. Dick Edwards, in order to take 18 pillow cases and 10 towels along with one case of Scotch whisky and one case of bourbon.

BIG HONEY BUYERS

SIOUX CITY, Ia. —(INS)— The Sioux City honey association, said to be the largest handler of honey in the world, paid out more than $1,500,000 to producers last year. The organization recently was admitted to membership in the National Council of Farmer Co-operatives.

New Hats Designed for Spring

Top left, disc hat of smooth straw; right, brim ribbon hat; below, flyaway hat in blue needlepoint straw.

By SUSAN BARDEN
International Illustrated News Writer

Three top-flight American designers joined forces this season to create spring hats that will adorn and prettify. They presented their collection at a recent showing, and this department is passing on some of the more marked trends.

The half-shell is an ultra-becoming, softly sculptured pleateau which moves forward at the front or sides in ripples or curves, and leaves the back of the head uncovered.

The pinch bonnet is reminiscent of the dainty little bonnets worn by Queen Alexandra. This style is small and soft looking, with molded dents in place of a stiff crown. There is also the half bonnet which is a variation with perkier, sharper outlines, more like a sailor sliced in two.

Another style is the winged brim which spreads wide at the sides and ends in points, with the half crown fitting snugly brimless in back. There is also the flexible brim, which is sure to be a great favorite as it can be adjusted to suit the face.

Examples Are Charming.

All three of the hats pictured in the above photographs were inspired by this triumvirate under the name of Millinery Fashion Inspiration, and they are charming and smart examples of some of the newest hat styles.

The fly-away hat is made of blue needlepoint straw with side suspension clasp to hold it firm on the head. It has a winged-shaped Victory brim with a scalloped edge in deeper blue. The Chinese influence is seen in this model as it is somewhat reminiscent of a coolie hat.

The versatile brim ribbon hat is made of narrow pink and navy grosgrain around the shallow crown. The brim can be worn turned back or becomingly rippled, so it is the type of chapeau that would be flattering to very different faces.

The dics hat is made of smooth straw with a suspension band in back that clasps the head without disturbing the hair. The hat can be worn with any coiffure, either up or down. A band of matching veil softens the tailored line.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, March 28.

Sunday's horoscope is a generally adverse and ominous one, with many indications of treachery and sordid elements affecting the various activities. It might be advisable to seek consolation and fortification against such malefic assault by resorting to regulation Sabbath avocations.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves beset by all sorts of treacheries, both in business and private affairs. Keep alert to all pitfalls and subtle intrigues, resolving to remain steadfast and upright in all transactions. The mind may be confused and unreliable and the emotions sordid.

A child born on this day should be given rigid training and supervision against all manner of secret, subtle and tricky states of mind and emotions. It may be subject to all kinds of treacheries and subterfuges.

For Monday, March 29.

Monday's astrological forecast promises many unusual opportunities for attaining cherished desires by employing original creative thinking in situations which seem to be clouded by pitfalls and dangers of challenging nature. New ways and means or reconstruction of old plans and processes may prove resourceful. There may be sinister threats to undermine such effort by gossip, slander or distortion of worthy purposes. Accept responsibilities, preserve integrity and prudence with fairness and candor.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to splendid opportunities for progress and advancement if they will give considerable creative thought to formulating new plans and innovations, but backed up by sound methods.

A child born on this day may be versatile and progressive.

Music In Brief

Playing a piano a few hours each week will exercise the springs and help it to last for the duration.

If you are storing your piano, have it tuned first. It will remain in better condition.

Piano production was at the highest point since the 'twenties when manufacture stopped in favor of war production.

Keeping a piano in tune will add greatly to the enjoyment it will provide. A tuning with each change of season is recommended.

Thousands of obsolete pianos have been dismantled and the metals in them turned over to war scrap stocks.

No pianos are being manufactured at the present time, so take care of the one you have. If repairs are needed, have them made immediately to prevent further damage to the instrument.

Many vocational schools today have adult classes in piano playing, as well as classes for the younger people.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I was proud of Noel as he now played up to Mary's raillery, valiantly trying to live up to his promise that he would carry on as if nothing had happened.

"This was only a false alarm, Mary," he told her smiling, "but if Auntie Madge ever wants to switch husbands, she knows where I'm to be found."

"Varlet! Minion!" Dicky thundered. "If I weren't so hungry, I'd flay you alive. But come on, and let's eat!"

"This way," Olga said smiling, and indicated our seats at an exquisitely appointed table. As we seated ourselves, she touched a little silver bell, and two waiters, who I knew were secretly in my father's employ, appeared and served a most delicious meal.

Georges Delighted.

The menu included three national dishes of Trees, all favorites of Georges—a preparation of chicken and herbs which defied analysis, a salad, and a frothy dessert of which eggs, fruit and cream were constituents. These had been prepared, I knew, by Olga, with Olina's help, in the kitchen of their own apartment. After Georges had had two helpings of the main dish, he looked over at his hostess with appreciative eyes.

"Where in the world," he asked, "did you find a cook who knew how to prepare that dish?"

"I'll answer that question, Georges," I struck in. "Olga and Olina are too modest. They are the cooks who prepared that dish, as well as others of your favorites."

I knew that Olga had done the accurate measuring and blending, also much of the other work, while Olina's had been the minor role of helper. But I was sure Olga never would gainsay me.

"That explains it," he said. "It is superb. But this is too much—that you and Olina should toil for me! I am overwhelmed, abashed."

"Nothing is too much for us to do for you, my friend," Olga said.

At that moment there was a knock on the outer door, and Philip Veritzen rose immediately.

Takes Precautions.

"Dicky, lock this door after me, then the one to the kitchen," he said. "And everybody please keep silent until I come back. I think it is Mr. Spencer, but there is no use taking a chance of somebody getting past me and snatching a look into this room."

But Dicky barely had locked the doors, leaving himself on the outside in the sitting room, before he unlocked it again, and came in, followed by the host of the party, escorting my father.

"So you did make it, after all!" Olga said joyously to my father. "I am so glad! See, I have saved a place for you next to me. Georges is at my other side. Now I will have the men bring you an appetizer and some broth immediately."

But I know how slender is my father's appetite, also his need for haste, so interposed quickly.

"May I speak for my father, Olga dear?" I said. "He eats very little, and I don't want him to miss your special Trees dishes. So won't you just have them bring him first a small portion of this dish over which Georges has been raving, like all the rest of us? Then he will still have the others in prospect."

Leaves It To Madge.

"I don't know what she's talking about, Olga," my father said, as he sat down beside our regal hostess, "but she's my gustatory guide and conscience, and I always obey her."

Then I shall follow your example," Olga said smiling, and spoke to the waiter, who promptly served my father with a portion of the dish Georges had been praising.

Although I knew he was anxious to get Georges safely away from the Lansfield, my father betrayed no hint of urgency during the rest of the delicious meal. But when in the sitting room, we had finished our demi-tasses, he leaned forward and addressed Olga.

"It makes me very sad to break up this pleasant party," he said, "but I must take advantage of Milner's absence from the hotel, and take Georges at once down to the hideaway."

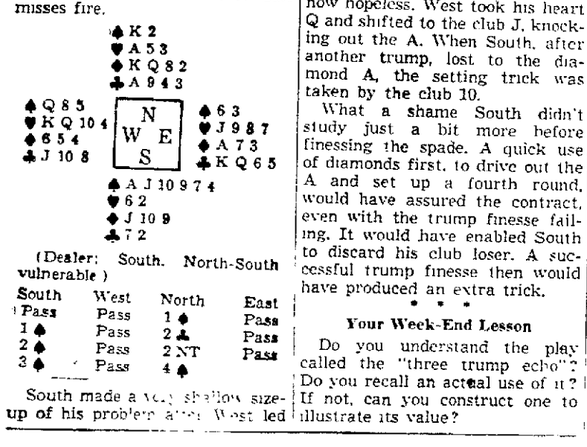
"The Authority on Authorities"

NO ARGUMENT IN THIS

AS REGARDS a play which produces an extra trick if it works, but beats your contract if it fails, you have no argument. Go for the contract. But sometimes the play for the extra trick is also a safety play for the contract. It may enable you to pull through, even if an absolutely necessary move in another suit misses fire.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

South made a very shallow size-up of his problem after West led the heart K. Noting that he could afford the loser apparent in each of the three side suits, if the trump finesse would work, he did no further worrying, but decided to stake everything on that finesse. He took the heart lead in dummy, scored the spade K to protect himself against a singleton Q and then led to the spade J. The Q won that, and his case was now hopeless. West took his heart Q and shifted to the club J, knocking out the A. When South, after another trump, lost to the diamond A, the setting trick was taken by the club 10.

What a shame South didn't study just a bit more before finessing the spade. A quick use of diamonds first, to drive out the A and set up a fourth round, would have assured the contract, even with the trump finesse failing. It would have enabled South to discard his club loser. A successful trump finesse then would have produced an extra trick.

Hardening-Off Victory Vegetables.

By DEAN HALLIDAY
(Released by Central Press Assn.)

FREQUENTLY plants started in the hotbed or indoors are ready to be moved out into the Victory garden before all danger of frost is past. To meet this situation the cold frame is ideally useful for hardening-off the plants before they face the out of doors. When such plants are transferred from hotbed to cold frame they can be protected from a sudden drop in temperature, yet have the opportunity to harden-off gradually. By this method the young plants are protected from the sudden transition from heated quarters into the rigors of outdoor weather.

Ten days to two weeks before the plants are to be moved from cold frame to permanent location outdoors, begin the hardening-off process. Do this gradually by getting them accustomed to less and less water. This will encourage growth of fibrous roots as the plants reach out for more moisture. Also give the plants more and more fresh air and direct sunlight by raising the sash a little more each day that the weather permits (be sure to close sash at night) until at last the sash is raised entirely from the frame as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

All seedlings should be well watered on the day of transplanting so that the soil will ball about the roots when the plants are lifted.

Martins Ferry Five Favored

Meets Newark Wildcats In State Semi-Finals.

COLUMBUS — (NS) — "Get in there and give all you got. Let's go!"

With these words or ones similar, coaches of eight high school basketball teams today were to send their cagers into semi-final games of the state class A and class B high school basketball tourney. Two will emerge with glory.

Floyd Baker's undefeated Martins Ferry five, winners of 24 straight, were pre-tourney favorites over Newark, Lima Central and Canton McKinley in the A race.

Yorkville, only two miles from Martins Ferry, was only a slight favorite over Middle Point, unbeaten in 26 games, Tipp City and Waynesburg in the B division.

The class A games were to be played in the Columbus auditorium with Lima Central and Canton McKinley opening the proceedings at 1 p. m., slow time (2 p. m. EWT). Ferry's Purple Riders and a shot-shot Newark outfit were to collide an hour later. The state A champ will be decided in a clash between the two winners at 8 p. m.

The B games were to be played in the Ohio State university gymnasium with Waynesburg and Tipp City opening play at 1 p. m., slow time, and Middle Point and Yorkville taking the floor an hour later. The state class B champ also will be decided at 8 p. m.

Although the state finals were cut from 32 to eight teams this year in regional play because of the war transportation problem, interest in Ohio's capital city was running at a feverish pace. Hotel lobbies last night were crowded with high school students who came early to be sure and get a seat for the finish of the 1943 high school cage season.

One of the first teams to pull in was Martins Ferry's Purple Riders. Coach Floyd Baker, probably the most outstanding high school cage coach in Ohio, was making his fifth trip in the last eight years to the state finals.

Although fairly oozing with confidence, Baker pointed out to his boys that it was "an honor to get this far, so just forget about that undefeated record."

In facing Newark, Ferry will be meeting the team with the next best record in the A meet. The Wildcats have won 24 and lost only two games this season. McKinley's Bulldogs, also losers of only two contests and in the state tourney for the 11th time, have won 20 games while Lima Central, a late season starter, has captured 17 and lost five.

Although Yorkville's Ductillites have lost more games than any other class B team, they were still the favorite on the basis of tourney play thus far. In seven tourney games, Yorkville has averaged 58.4 points while holding the opposition to a 35.7 average.

Middle Point's cagers, who lost only one game last year, were expected to provide Yorkville with stiff opposition. The clash between Tipp City, winners of 17 of 20 games, and Waynesburg, defeated only twice in 27 starts, was termed a toss-up.

Greco Whips Shans Again

Canadian Considered In Line For Title Bout.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK — (NS) — Johnny Greco of the Canadian army, presumably qualified himself last night as a challenger for Beau Jack's lightweight championship by the manner in which he put the complete and everlasting whammy on a gent named Cleo Shans, a refugee from Los Angeles, for ten rounds at Madison Square Garden. Quite naturally, Promoter Jacobs was not trying to prove anything except that 15,000 people will pay something in excess of $45,000 in order to see the same guy abuse the same patsy in much the same manner as had prevailed upon a previous occasion.

Nonetheless, Greco is now to be considered "in" for a title match upon some future occasion, whereas Mr. Shans loses nothing but his health of which he seems to have an abounding amount.

He got lambasted all over the joint last night, losing all of the rounds and winning hardly a half-minute of any of them. In other words, he's exactly the same guy who couldn't fight in Los Angeles and is now fighting in main events in Madison Square Garden. He has the style of a turtle, which closes in upon itself and defies you to do anything about it, except maybe with a good, stout baseball bat.

Greco, shifting quickly to the right and cutting back sharply as Shans pivoted, scored hard with a number of hard rights. In fact, any number of them. But Shans was still there at the finish, which is something that also could be surprisingly said for most of the customers. It wasn't a prize fight. It was the old fashioned Delaware whipping post, without some of the latter's more admirable features.

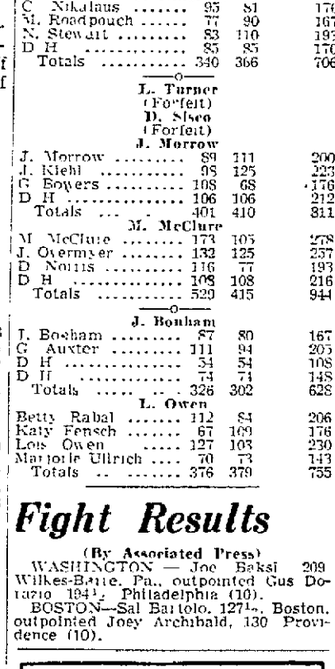
From the Minors



Ray Mueller, hardy catcher of the Sacramento club in the Pacific Coast last year, may be the regular catcher of the Cincinnati Reds this season. Mueller has been in pro baseball for 11 years, starting in 1932 with Harrisburg of the New York-Pennsylvania league. His first major league job was with Boston of the National league in 1935. He played with Pittsburgh in 1939 and has been with Rochester and Sacramento since. Mueller batted .297 last season.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK — (AP) — The Jamaica race track is planning to put in a big victory garden this year, including a three-acre potato patch in the infield . . . Although the basketball rules bosses aren't likely to take any action at their week-end meetings, Jim St. Clair, who heads the rules committee, favors one change. He'd like to see the three-second rule eliminated.

ORDERS IS ORDERS.

Pvt. Sam Friedman, Fort Slocum, N. Y., photographer, isn't a guy to ask questions so when a sergeant told him yesterday, "Joe De Martino is fighting at Madison Square Garden; get over there and take a picture," Pvt. Friedman turned up, ticket and camera in hand, at 4 p. m. . . . He was still waiting when Johnny Greco was pummeling Cleo Shans, but finally just at eleven, Pvt. De Martino stepped out for the after-the-main bout tussel with George Wilson . . . Pvt. Sam slid into a front-row seat and at 11:01:45 he had his picture.

GOOD SCOUT.

Scout Joe Cambria of the Washington Senators tells this one about his "discovery" of Richard Ahrens, the seven-foot rookie pitcher from Oil City, Pa., who has been quite noticeable around the Senator camp. "I found him in a grocery store. He was behind the counter reaching for some cans on the top shelf, and when I saw him I thought he was standing on a ladder. But I didn't see any ladder so I signed him.

Keltners Win Squad Game

Gromek Pitches and Plays Shortstop.

LAFAYETTE, Ind. — (AP) — Manager Lou Boudeau ordered his Cleveland Indians to rest today, satisfied the Tribesmen have reached the conditioning stage when a day off will do them as much good as another practice session.

After a fortnight of muscle stretching— mostly indoors—in Purdue university's field house, the Indians wound up the first lap of their wartime training routine with another intrasquad contest yesterday, the second this week.

The team captained by Ken Keltner defeated the Gene Desautels nine 3 to 1 with first-string talent spread evenly among the opponents.

The manpower shortage was plainly manifest again as Al Smith and Al Milnar, both hurlers, played the outfield for the Keltners with pitcher Steve Gromek holding down the shortstop position for two innings after mound duty in the third. Jim Bagby played second for the losers and turned in a surprisingly efficient performance.

Two Tribesmen, Allie Reynolds and Hank Edwards, will compete against other major leaguers training in Indiana in Purdue's annual relays today with their fellow teammates planning to attend in a body.

Cincy Reds Stage First Squad Game

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — (AP) — First actual test of northern training effects will be felt today when the Cincinnati Reds engage in their first intra-squad game of the season. Observers believe that the "regulars" lineup today will vary with McKechnie's opening game choices, April 21.

* * *

With Heinie Mueller behind the plate, the infield will stack up with Frank McCormick, Lonnie Frey and Bert Haas on the bases and Eddie Miller at shortstop. Max Marshall, Mike McCormick and Frank Kelleher are expected to patrol the outer gardens.

* * *

Much attention will be centered on "Woody" Williams, 29-year-old rookie infielder up from Syracuse, whose line drives to all fields has caused much speculation that he will earn the berth of regular utility infielder of the season.

DiMaggio Goes Hitless In Army

FULLERTON, Cal. — (NS) — Joe DiMaggio, whose big bat earned many a victory for the world champion New York Yankees, had a batting average of .000 today following his first baseball appearance since he swapped a Yankee uniform for a Yank outfit.

"This is the fastest I've ever gotten in shape," apologized the former Yankee slugger for his hitless day while his Santa Ana air base teammates were pounding out a 6-4 victory over Fullerton Junior college.

"But I'll be back socking 'em after 'this game' is over," he promised.

Joe walked the first time he came to the plate and lined out after working the count to three and two in his second appearance.

LINSZ RECREATIONS ROLL IN WILLARD

WILLARD — Linsz Recreation bowlers will meet a Willard all-star quintet in a Red Cross benefit match at the Bowlmor alleys here tomorrow at 2:30 p. m.

In the Linsz lineup are: Charles Lausche, brother of Cleveland's mayor, who recently won $2,000 in the Petersen classic in Chicago, Joe Kissoff who won $500 in the same event, and had a 299 game, Joe Stanley, 1942 A. B. C. singles champion with a 756 series, Jack Kuver, who has rolled in 28 A. B. C. tourneys, and Norman Gehring, who has a league average of 220.

Buckeyes Take Swimming Lead

Hawaiian Stars Pace Ohio State Tankmen.

COLUMBUS — (UP) — Ohio State university went into the final events of the 20th annual National Collegiate Athletic association swimming championships a definite favorite today—despite stellar individual performances by opposing swim stars.

Opposing swimmers broke one world's record and two NCAA records last night as the Buckeyes collected 49 of a possible 110 points in the first six events of the meet. Michigan, their most dangerous rival, was able to score only 23 points.

* * *

The world's record for the 50-yard freestyle was broken by Henry Kozlowski, Northwestern university freshman, who swam the course in 22.1 seconds, eclipsing the previous record of 22.6 seconds set by Duke Kahanamoku of the University of Washington in 1923.

NCCA records were broken in the 300-yard medley and the 150-yard backstroke.

Harry Holliday, Big Ten backstroke champion from Michigan, did the backstroke in 1:33.5—.7 of a second under the previous NCAA record of 1:34.2 set by Albert Vande Weghe of Princeton in 1938. Marcus Follansee of Ohio State finished a close second.

The Michigan three-man medley team set a new NCAA and Ohio pool record in the 300-yard event. John Patten flashed across the finish line in 2:53.4 after J. Einbinder and Holliday gave him a comfortable margin over the second place Ohio medley team. The previous mark was 2:54.5.

Ohio's ace Hawaiian swimmers, Bill Smith and Keo Nakama, and divers Frank Dempsey and Charles Batterman were responsible for most of the Buckeye points.

Nakama gave Ohio an early lead when he took first place in the 1500-meter freestyle in the comparatively slow time of 19:18.6. Smith tallied six more points for the Buckeyes in winning the 220-yard freestyle in 2:09.8. Nakama was second in that event.

Dempsey and Batterman placed one-two in the one-meter low board diving events. A. C. J. Doran of Princeton was third while Jim Strong took fourth place to give the Buckeyes 12 of the 16 points awarded in the event.

Cripples Meet In Cage Battle

Minor Forced Back In Play For Toledo Quint.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Toledo university's all-freshman basketball team tangles with the Cinderella aggregation from Washington and Jefferson tonight in a "battle of cripples" at the National Invitational basketball tournament.

Jim Glass, towering center for the flashy Ohio outfit, hasn't recovered sufficiently from the flu to play so Davage Minor took the aluminum cast off his broken hand and will start in the semi-final contest.

Paul Konyha, set shot artist for the Presidents, suffered three burned fingers since the night the last-seeded Pennsylvanians eliminated Creighton, 43 to 42, and Pierre Hartman, 6-foot 8-inch center, still is wobbly from the flu.

The other semi-final game, between St. John's of Brooklyn and Fordham, will settle the dispute as to which is the New York City champion.

Hockey Playoffs Approaching End

(By Associated Press)

There's a distinct possibility that the semi-final round playoffs in the American Hockey league for the Calder cup will be over by midnight tonight.

Buffalo holds a three game to one edge over Hershey, pennant winner, in the Class A best-of-seven series and is the guest of the Bears tonight. Indianapolis, defending playoff champion, is one up on Cleveland in the best-of-three Class B round and is at the Ohio city tonight.

In both instances the team which needs a victory tonight to prolong the semi-finals had the advantage of its home ice.

Should Hershey and the Barons triumph tonight they will have another chance to meet their rivals Sunday night, this time on foreign ice.

Greg Rice Sets New Record

Gil Dodds Sets Meet Mark In Mile Event.

By DENNIS DALTON

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — Little Greg Rice, the mechanical man from Notre Dame, continued to rule as America's ace distance runner today after setting a new world indoor record of 8:51 for two miles, breaking by one-tenth of a second the mark he set in 1941.

Rice lapped two rivals, Glen Masten of Colgate and Georgetown's Dave Williams, in the third annual K. of C. meet last night to post one of two new world indoor marks established.

* * *

The other international standard went to Herb Thompson, Jersey City, N. J., sprinter, who dashed 45 yards in 4.8 seconds to clip one-tenth of a second from the mark created by Canada's Percy Williams in 1929. Dave Trepanier of Ohio State was second and Chester Thomas, another Buckeye third.

Gil Doods, the Boston Theological student

DRIVER INJURED

Hurt as Car Hits Parked Auto; Bus Passengers Escape.

One driver suffered severe injuries in an auto collision late yesterday while passengers on a bus of the Mansfield Rapid Transit company were unharmed when the carrier was sideswiped by a towed house trailer at Park avenue west and Linden road.

John W. Brown, 217 South Franklin avenue, suffered a nearly severed tongue and facial cuts when the auto he was driving rammed the parked car of Raymond West, 139 South Franklin avenue, yesterday evening. Brown was taken to General hospital for treatment.

Charles H. Whittier, Decatur, Ill., told Patrolman Richard Heclit he was unaware that the trailer his car was drawing had swung against a city bus. He was halted by a motorist who witnessed the mishap and pursued him several blocks. It developed that a control chain on the trailer coupling had become unattached.

THEATERS

'Air Force' Opens.

The life story of a Flying Fortress is the theme of the Warner Bros. film, "Air Force," which opens at the Ohio tomorrow. Produced with the co-operation of the United States government, the story is concerned with the trials and tribulations of the "Mary Ann," a B-17 bomber, caught unprepared above the embattled waters of the South Pacific during the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor. The cast is composed principally of the bombing crew, featuring John Garfield, Gig Young, Harry Carey, George Tobias, Arthur Kennedy, James Brown, John Ridgely, Ray Montgomery and Ward Wood.

Abbott and Costello.

Bud Abbott and Lou Costello are said to have their most comical roles in Universal's "Who Done It?" opening tomorrow at the Ritz. The picture is described as a travesty on mystery drama and the action takes place within the confines of a gigantic radio studio. Robert Young and Laraine Day are featured in "Journey for Margaret," co-feature.

Remains Open.

The Majestic will remain open Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next week with a double feature program. Top attraction, starting tomorrow, is "Blind Date," featuring Ann Sothern and Neil Hamilton. The second picture is "What Price Innocence."

Puffs on Pipe.

Jack Benny discards his "seegars" for a pipe in his role as "The Meanest Man in the World," opening today at the Madison. The popular comedian, whose long black Havanas are almost a trademark, guessed that it was because "I play a starving lawyer and, I suppose, lawyers who don't have clients always have a pipe." In the picture, Benny, is co-starred with Priscilla Lane and supported by Rochester, Edmund Gwenn, Anne Revere and Helene Reynolds. "After Midnight With Boston Blackie" is the second attraction.

GIVES RULING

Judge Orders Weekley's Cases Heard In April Term.

Damage suits filed in common pleas court last June by Willard Weekley, former Butler school superintendent, against Dr. John A. Reed, Ira George and Norman J. Stukey, all of Butler, will be docketed for hearing early in the April term, Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch said this morning in ruling on the plaintiff's motion for assignment.

The judge granted the defendants leave to file answers immediately to the plaintiff's charges that they attacked his character. Weekley seeks $10,000 damages from each of the defendants. They had been granted 20-day leaves in which to file answers last July. August and September having been in default since the expiration of the final period the judge said.

Judge Kalbfleisch said the plaintiff would have two weeks in which to reply to their answers before the case is set for trial by jury.

diately at prices ranging from 93 cents to $1.09 per bushel to ease the feed shortage facing livestock and poultry farmers as a result of the "frozen" state of the corn market.

3. The senate, awaiting to see what action Davis will take on farm prices, passed a bill to prevent inclusion of government benefit payments in computing parity, but deferred action on a house measure to include farm labor costs in the parity formula.

4. Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown told a group of meat packers that "no decision" had been reached yet on establishing livestock ceilings.

Brown has voiced bitter opposition of the two pieces of legislation adjusting parity, contending that they would boost farm prices upward 21 per cent and add more than $3,000,000,000 to the annual food bill of consumers. President Roosevelt also has opposed the proposals.

Many farm organization leaders and farm bloc members of congress seek higher farm and food prices as necessary to insure adequate production. Whether Davis will accede to these demands probably will depend upon President Roosevelt.

The president said that Davis would have complete jurisdiction over all farm and food prices in collaboration with OPA Chief Brown. However, it is not believed that Davis would make any wide departure from the administration's current price policy without Mr. Roosevelt's approval.

Meantime, agriculture department sources disclosed that prices received by fishermen in 1942 rose 107 per cent over prices in the pre-war years. Fish and wildlife service statistics showed a great increase from March, 1942 to March of this year.

In New York, the price of select oysters increased $1.00 a gallon in 12 months. Wholesale fish prices at Chicago showed increases ranging from four to 18 cents a pound. Haddock prices at three New England ports have gone up from three cents a pound in 1935-39 to 12 cents this year.

OPA officials acknowledged that fresh fish is one of the few major foods not under price control.

Poultry was placed under ceilings last January, with country shippers receiving fixed prices and wholesalers and retailers granted an authorized markup. The latter varies according to the type of store. Typical per pound price ceilings for dressed fryers, between three and four pounds, at retail: Atlanta, 43 cents; San Francisco, 48 cents; New York, 42; Washington, 42; Chicago, 41. Eviscerated poultry is higher.

OPA spokesmen conceded that black market violations in poultry price ceilings have occurred, indicating that the agency soon will shift its enforcement staff to this problem, since rationing is expected to provide adequate control over meat.

An OPA representative said the "markup" method was the fairest possible system of determining retail poultry prices, although agreeing that it was "confusing" to the consumer who isn't aware of the actual ceilings and of violations. Price panels, attached to rationing boards, are being set up to instruct consumers on price ceilings.

Several congressional leaders acclaimed President Roosevelt's disclosure that the WPB had erroneously estimated farm machinery needs and would provide more equipment. WPB previously boosted production of new machinery to 40 per cent of 1940's output and of repair parts to 160 per cent for the first two quarters of this year. Quotas for the third quarter will be set on the basis of the agriculture deparement's survey.

Eden Indicates Full Accord Between Britain, U. S. on War Objectives.

"We have the idea of a close-knit framework of free nations," he said. "And we believe that it has been the world's failure to create such a framework which has twice led to war in our time. This at least is certain.

"Any new international authority that we may agree to set up can only succeed if it is backed by sufficient strength. It will not be enough for one country, or even two, to display the qualities necessary to protect the peace.

"The work will take all that America and Britain, Russia and China, and the United Nations can offer."

Eden said that Britain was committed not only to unconditional surrender of the Axis in Europe but also to destruction of the Axis in Asia.

Eden said "we have yet far to travel before the final triumph over our enemies in the west and in the east" and warned against "sudden and sensational developments" from his talks with American leaders here.

"But there has been a meeting of minds between us about the present and future that will, we are sure, bear fruit," he said.

Eden assured the world that Britain has "no secret engagements with any country. Nor," he added, "do we seek as a result of this conflict to extend our boundaries or increase our possessions."

He continued, however, that "nothing in the world is more unlikely" than that the British commonwealth will cease to exist as a result of this war.

"The greatest of all peace aims is to ensure that never again shall unscrupulous leaders be able to carry their peoples into war and bring tragedy on the world.

"We shall accordingly take steps for the physical prevention of this danger by the enforced disarmament of these gangster nations."

LAVAL CABINET GETS SHAKE-UP

Berlin Reports 5 Ministers Dismissed as Vichy Loses Backing Abroad.

Most of the important French colonies are now out of Vichy's control.

But other changes incident to the shake-up indicated the growing unrest in France.

The Berlin radio, in a broadcast recorded today in New York by the Associated Press, said Petain had again defined his attitude toward collaboration with Germany in a statement to the secretary of the association of "the friends of the marshal."

"One fact dominates everything," Berlin quoted the marshal. "We have been defeated. Cooperation is a necessity. I have entered commitments pledging my word and I will keep my word."

Referring to Giraud's recent annulment of the decrees of Vichy as applied to French Africa, Petain declared France's doom would be sealed sooner or later if men like Giraud should ever be re-established in power in France.

He said Giraud had restored all those political institutions which had ruined France almost completely.
